Attorney General Knudsen sues TikTok for harmful effects on children, deceptive practices

Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen filed a lawsuit against social media giant TikTok today for knowingly sharing addictive and harmful content with children and teens and engaging in other deceptive practices in violation of the Montana Consumer Protection Act.

The lawsuit was filed after an investigation into the app by the Montana Department of Justice found there are "virtually endless amounts of extreme and mature videos presented to children as young as thirteen." TikTok is also specifically targeting young people and purposefully designed the app to be addictive, while lying about the mature and extreme content on the highly addictive app.

"TikTok must be held accountable for poisoning the minds of children and lying to parents about the videos their children can view on the app. Parents need to know the truth about the content their children have access to on the app and TikTok is pushing to their feeds," Attorney General Knudsen said. "As attorney general, it's my job to hold bad actors deceiving Montanans accountable and I intend to do just that."

TikTok is in violation of the Montana Consumer Protection Act, which protects Montanans from "unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." Under the Act, Attorney General Knudsen is seeking a permanent injunction compelling TikTok to cease its deceptive, misleading, false and unfair statements and conduct.

TikTok's age ratings in Apple's App Store, Google Play, and Microsoft Stores are deceptive. For example, the social media company deceptively states that in each category in the Apple App Store including "profanity or crude humor," "mature/suggestive themes," "sexual content and nudity," and "alcohol, tobacco, or drug use references" is infrequent and mild, but in every case the investigation revealed it is much more extreme.

- TikTok claims in the Apple App Store that profanity on the app is infrequent and mild, but many videos with hundreds of millions of views are set to music with extremely profane language and are readily available to users.
- TikTok claims that alcohol, tobacco, and drug use references are infrequent or mild, but investigators found numerous examples of frequent and intense content. In one example, a woman is smiling and then showing a wobbly room with the text "This is what ket feels like." "Ket" is short for the drug ketamine.
- Sexual content and nudity are also not infrequent or mild as claimed by TikTok, as Montana's investigation revealed many sexualized videos are readily available to users, including "Magic Mike" performances of male strippers dancing and grinding on women on stage and a video describing at length an encounter at a "rub n tug" massage

- parlor.
- Videos including other mature and suggestive themes that are psychologically damaging for young users. For example, the investigation revealed numerous videos that glorify extreme thinness.

Still, TikTok chooses to give itself an age rating of "12+" in the Apple App Store even though mature and adult content promoting suicide, self-harm, and eating disorders; recipes for highly alcoholic drinks; sexually explicit videos; and advice and encouragement about using certain drugs readily available to users registered as 13-year-olds.

TikTok has also intentionally pursued innovative design features to keep young people in the app, which do not comport with their age ratings in app stores and have led to addiction in young Montanans which is a detriment to their well-being, development, and mental and physical health. For example, the TikTok Live feature facilitates user engagement in dangerous activities such as binge drinking in exchange for compensation. One user died of excessive alcohol consumption the day after Christmas in 2022 after earning money by taking drinks "bought" for him by other users.

Features like "effects," which can alter a user's appearance, can have a profoundly negative impact on young women, causing body image issues, eating disorders, and even suicide which remain undisclosed by TikTok.

Further, the social media company has also made deceptive claims about restrictive controls and information in its community guidelines, leaving parents without the information they need to decide whether to allow their child to use TikTok.

For example, TikTok states that "Restricted Mode is an option at the account settings level that limits the appearance of content that may not be appropriate for all audiences." However, it does not work the way TikTok claims as even when restricted mode is enabled, users – even 13-year-olds – can see mature content, and TikTok does not warn parents that restricted mode does not meaningfully restrict the visibility of mature content on the app.

"Parents also care about safety and parental control features, such as TikTok's Restricted Mode. Parents who use these controls rely on them to do what TikTok says they will do—limit the amount of inappropriate, mature content their kids see," Attorney General Knudsen wrote in the lawsuit. "Parents need to know the limits of these so-called "safety" features before they decide whether, and how, to permit their children to use TikTok. Misrepresentations about these safety features are particularly acute and deceptive when combined with TikTok's other deceptive representations."

Additional commission amendments proposed for November meeting

Fish and Wildlife Commissioner K.C. Walsh, from Region 4, is proposing two amendments to the proposed fishing regulations, which are on the agenda for the Nov. 12 commission meeting. The commission will meet at Montana WILD and virtually on Nov. 12 at 8:30 a.m. The commission meeting agenda is available for public review and comment online.

The amendments being proposed by Commissioner Walsh pertain to the definition of a hook and daily and possession limits for combined trout in the Western District and the Central District for rivers/streams.

- The first amendment would remove the statement that "a lure with multiple hooks is still considered single hook."
- The second amendment would change the daily and possession limits for combined trout in the Western District and the Central District for rivers/streams to "3 daily and in possession."

Comments on commission amendments can be submitted to the commission by going to fwp.mt.gov/aboutfwp/commission/october-2024-meeting. Comments on these amendments will be accepted through Oct. 31. Comments will also be taken in person at Montana WILD or any FWP Regional Office during the meeting and virtually during the meeting from those who register. Registration to comment is open now and will run through noon on Nov. 11.

2025 Montana Migratory Bird Stamp contest opens

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks is seeking submissions for the 2025 Montana Migratory Bird Stamp contest.

This is the second year of the new Montana Migratory Bird Stamp program. In 2024, Florida artist John Nelson Harris won with his painting of a pintail. The first year of the new program saw more than 70 submissions from artists around the country.

"We're excited to see the interest this contest has with artists," said FWP Director Dustin Temple. "We will continue to use the Montana Migratory Bird Stamp as a tool to generate awareness in the importance of wetland conservation and restoration around the state."

The 2025 Montana Migratory Bird Stamp contest will be open through Jan. 31. The Wetlands Protection Advisory Council will select the winning art in early February.

Details on contest rules and entry information can be found here. The winning artist will receive a $2,000 cash prize and be featured on promotional materials throughout 2025.

Wetlands are critical for many wildlife and aquatic species, as well providing critical ecosystem functions like flood control, groundwater recharge and water purification. FWP's Migratory Bird Wetland Program helps landowners and other conservation partners develop and fund projects that protect, conserve, enhance or create high-quality wetland habitat.

The 2025 Montana Migratory Bird Stamp will not be required to hunt migratory birds in Montana. To hunt migratory birds, hunters will need a current Montana migratory bird license and their federal duck stamp, the same as in years past.

However, those who purchase a Montana migratory bird license will receive a free collectable sticker showing the winning artwork, information about the Migratory Bird Wetland Program and information about how to make additional contributions. Purchasing a Montana migratory bird license is a great way to support wetland habitat conservation. FWP will work with Montana's Outdoor Legacy Foundation and other partners to provide other ways to help support wetlands conservation. More information will be provided on donation opportunities in the coming months.

For more information on the contest, contact Greg Lemon at glemon@mt.gov.

CSI Works to Improve Revocation and Surrender Process for Montana Bail Bonds Professionals

Commissioner Troy Downing is pleased to announce a significant update to the revocation and surrender process for bail agents across Montana. This new procedure introduces a single, standardized surrender form to be used statewide, now available through the CSI website portal HERE. The CSI is working with detention centers and courts across the state to make the newly developed form a standard procedure. This will ensure uniformity and clarity in the revocation process.

Key Features:

- Secure Online Portal: The CSI portal is now the centralized, secure location for managing surrender forms. This new system is designed with the highest security standards to protect sensitive information.

Benefits:

- Efficiency: A single form reduces administrative confusion and ensures all agencies and stakeholders are on the same page.
- Ease of Use: A centralized portal streamlines managing forms and tracking their status for all bondsmen.

This change represents a significant step toward enhancing transparency, efficiency, and uniformity in bail operations statewide.

"We will continue to work with Montana courts, detention centers, and bail bond agents to improve the process and keep the bail bond agents compliant with recent changes in legislation," said Commissioner Downing.
