The Early Childhood Coalition of Beaverhead County is proud to be part of Montana's nonprofit sector.

As Executive Director of the Early Childhood Coalition of Beaverhead County (ECCBC), I am honored to share the impact we've made locally and statewide. Partnering with over 40 organizations—including MTECC, Healthy Mothers Healthy Babies, and DPHHS—we advance our mission to empower families, strengthen communities, and prepare resilient children for Montana's future workforce.

Our Mission: To create a supportive community where children and families thrive.

Our Vision: A future where every child flourishes, and families are empowered with resources to navigate challenges, ensuring a brighter tomorrow and a stronger workforce for Montana.

Over the past year, we've expanded programs like Circle of Parents, enhanced early childhood resources, and supported families in underserved areas. Together, we've built a network that helps families overcome barriers to success.

Despite these strides, families in Beaverhead County still struggle with affordable childcare and accessible healthcare—both critical to stable homes and thriving children. These challenges demand innovative, collaborative solutions.

Now is the time for action. By prioritizing investments in early childhood programs and family support, Beaverhead County and Montana can ensure that children and families thrive, creating a legacy of resilience and opportunity for generations to come.

Join us in this mission. Whether you're a parent, business leader, policymaker, or concerned community member, your voice matters. Let's work together to build a brighter future for Beaverhead County and all of Montana.

With gratitude,

Maria Emmer-Aanes

Interior Department proposes strengthened protections for greater sage-grouse habitat

Proposed management updates employ science and partnership to balance development and conservation

The Department of the Interior announced today that the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has published proposed updates to strengthen conservation and management of greater sage-grouse habitat on public lands, informed by the best available science, collaborative work with states, and input from local, Tribal and federal partners. The proposed updates, outlined in a final environmental impact statement and amendments to 77 resource management plans, incorporate new sage-grouse conservation science and lessons learned and accommodate changing resource conditions while increasing implementation flexibility. The proposals balance a consistent west-wide management approach with unique policies in the individual states that are responsible for managing wildlife populations.

Updated habitat management plans will protect greater sage-grouse habitat in 10 Western states. Sage-grouse populations have continued to decline, largely due to habitat loss exacerbated by climate impacts such as drought, increasingly intense wildfires, and invasive species. Conserving sagebrush habitat benefits more than 350 other wildlife species and supports the livelihoods and traditions of Western communities. Species like elk, mule deer, pronghorn and pygmy rabbit rely on the same habitat to survive, and sagebrush lands contain headwaters for some of the West's major river systems and the aquatic species they sustain.

"Guided by the best available science, we are committed to the continued balance in our multi-use mandate for America's public lands," said Secretary Deb Haaland. "For too long, a false choice has been presented for land management that aims to pit development against conservation. This Administration's collaborative work has demonstrated that we can do both successfully. Through collaborative work in local communities, developed over decades, we are presenting science-based and thoughtful proposals to protect the greater sage-grouse and its habitat."

The BLM manages the largest single share of greater sage-grouse habitat in the United States—nearly 65 million acres of 145 million total acres. The proposal released today builds on a number of collaborative efforts undertaken by the Biden-Harris administration – including the Public Lands Rule, renewable energy rule, and the proposed Western Solar Plan – to strengthen protection for sagebrush habitat while retaining flexibility to coordinate with state government partners and account for variations in local habitat conditions. Today's proposal will help ensure that other uses of BLM sagebrush lands, including clean energy projects, move forward in a manner that limits impacts to sensitive resources and can also help combat climate change—a main driver of greater sage-grouse habitat loss.

The BLM considered roughly 38,000 comments from the public on the draft environmental analysis, along with information shared by state, local, Tribal and federal partners during more than 100 meetings held over two years. States also contributed data and scientific information that helped frame direction on adaptive management and mitigation requirements and supported updates to the boundaries of habitat management areas. The BLM engaged in government-to-government consultation and held informational briefings for Tribal governments throughout the process. Planning documents are available for review at the BLM National NEPA Register.

Protests of the proposed amendments may be filed until Dec. 16, 2024 at the BLM National NEPA Register. Following resolution of valid protests and responses to governors' reviews for consistency with state and local plans, the BLM will issue Records of Decision for each state where habitat management plans are being updated.

In addition to management decisions guided by the habitat plans, the BLM is actively restoring and conserving sagebrush habitat across the West through the President's Investing in America agenda. For example, as part of the Department's new Sagebrush Keystone Initiative, the Department has identified "Sagebrush Collaborative Restoration Landscapes" as areas to collaborate with ranchers, state and local leaders, Tribal Nations, conservation and sportsmen organizations, the outdoor recreation economy, private landowners and others to strategically deliver restoration actions in sagebrush country for the people, wildlife, and economies that depend on them. The Department's National Seed Strategy Keystone Initiative is also devoting resources to ensure a ready source of native plant seeds to further enhance landscape resilience and has identified five areas of greater sage-grouse range in which to fund habitat restoration and conservation.

Veteran's Corner Update #282

By Mike Lawson

Veteran News Updates:

• Today is the 249th Marine Corps Birthday. In 1921 Marine Corps 13th Commandant : General John A LeJeune, directed that a reminder of the honorable service of the Corps be published by every command, to all Marines throughout the globe, on the birthday of the Corps. This special day has been celebrated ever since. I spent two combat tours in Vietnam and I'll always remember, after being on a diet of c-rations, the birthday cake flown out to us on the choppers, on November 10, of 1966 and 1968. Nothing tasted so good to us as those pieces of cake. This special day is celebrated by Marines world wide. Marine Corps League Detachment #724, in Butte, had their Marine Corps Birthday Ball in the Annex of the Civic Center. It was a great time with delicious food catered by Metals Catering and the great band "Kings Friday. We had a live auction and a great ceremony. Next year will be the 250th birthday, which will be a special celebration. More on this at a later date.

• On November 11, Veterans Day will have taken place. A Veteran's Day Ceremony will have been performed with the Southwest Montana Honor Guard posting the Colors, Taps being played and the firing of a Three Round Rifle Volley. I'll be the speaker this year and I just finished putting my speech together. It's a special recognition day for veterans and many businesses will offer free meals and discounts to them. It's important for Americans to know the only deterrent that has prevented hostile forces from defeating our country and taking our freedom from us is our military. At any one time it's 10% or less of our population that make up our military services. "Freedom is Definitely Not Free" and our Veterans, past/present/future, who have served with honor, are part of the 17.4 million men/women since 1776 who have been the veterans protecting us. Nothing should ever be taken for granted as our freedoms are the envy of the world. Never leave our guard down or we'll lose these freedoms.

• Hearing loss is the biggest disability among military veterans. The report I read stated that 60% of Vietnam veterans and 50% of Gulf War veterans suffer from hearing loss. They estimate that probably one out of every three veterans have some degree of hearing loss other than tinnitus. It's recommended if you have constant ringing in your ears to get checked. I wear hearing aids and they make a big difference. It's recommended that you get checked to prevent a decline in cognitive function as well as more hearing loss.

UMW Foundation Announces Establishment of Ronald J. Woods Charitable Trust Annual Scholarship

The University of Montana Western Foundation is pleased to announce the addition of the Ronald J. Woods Charitable Trust Annual Scholarship. This scholarship aims to support and recognize students attending Montana Western who are pursuing a degree in education.

Ronald J. Woods, a Notre Dame graduate in chemical engineering, established a company in the 1960s that played a pivotal role in advancing modern injection molding technology. After selling the company in the 1980s, Mr. Woods dedicated his time to philanthropy and ultimately found his way to Montana, where he founded a nonprofit high school for students needing additional support. The school, which was tuition-free, made a lasting impact on the lives of many young people.

Though the school has since retired, the Woods Scholarship, established in 2015, has supported over 34 deserving students across Montana. The Ronald J. Woods Charitable Trust Annual Scholarship will offer four $5,000 scholarships to first-time, full-time teacher education students who are Montana high school graduates. Applicants must meet certain financial criteria and complete three essay questions for review by the Woods Charitable Trust Committee. This scholarship proudly honors Mr. Woods's legacy, upholding his vision of empowering hardworking students who are committed to making the world a better place.

The University of Montana Western Foundation is proud to recognize this year's recipients of the Ronald J. Woods Charitable Trust Annual Scholarship. Each recipient embodies a commitment to positively impact their communities and contribute to the future of education.

Ronald J. Woods Charitable Trust Scholarship Recipients:

Halia Peterson, from Conrad, Montana, is majoring in art education with the goal of being a positive influence in the lives of her future students and helping them unlock all of their artistic potential. "It means so much to me to be able to continue my education and pursue my dream of becoming an art teacher without financial burdens," says Halia.

Spencer Zavala graduated from Powell County High School and aspires to be an elementary teacher. His experience working in a special education classroom during high school has motivated Spencer to pursue a master's degree in special
