Youth Connections Host Polar Dip Fund Raiser

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

The Youth Connections Mentoring Program hosted its annual Polar Dip fundraiser at Blacktail Meadows on Saturday, drawing a small but spirited crowd brave enough to take a plunge into the frozen waters of the kids' pond.

Despite the chilly conditions, local residents showed their support for the program by participating in the event. Among the courageous jumpers were members of the Dillon Jaycees and officers from the Dillon Police Department, both of whom opted to take the plunge rather than choose the "chicken out" route.

Each of the two participants received a Golden Plunger Award, a lighthearted gesture celebrating their bravery. They donned humorous accessories, including water wings, swimmer's caps, and fishing poles, before plunging into the icy water. The frigid shock of the pond was met with laughter and cheers from onlookers as the participants surfaced, gasping for breath.

Following their daring dives, they were welcomed back with warm cups of hot cocoa, a delicious reward for their efforts.

The turnout may have been modest, but the enthusiasm and support for the Youth Connections Mentoring Program were evident. The event aims to raise funds to continue providing valuable mentorship opportunities for local youth, demonstrating the community's commitment to fostering positive development in young people.

Thank you to all who participated and supported the event—your contributions help make a difference!

Nevada of California and the Cascade Range of California, Oregon, and Washington, finding diminishing groundwater to be the dominant source of long-term water storage loss within both regions.

Despite these findings, we find that periods of extreme precipitation, such as the winter of 2023, can significantly restore water lost during severe droughts. The gains associated with these wet periods are durable, persisting over several subsequent years despite modest winters following an extremely wet year. This indicates that brief but extreme precipitation events can provide refuge for adjacent lowland regions dependent upon mountain groundwater for several years post-event.

In a future with increasingly variable precipitation, the strong influence of these extreme events may act to maintain mountain groundwater, sustain ecosystem health, and buffer adjacent areas against drought conditions during dry periods.

Attorney General Knudsen leads 21-state coalition urging congress to ban China-based AI platform on all government devices

Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen led a coalition of 21 attorneys general urging Congressional leadership to pass the "No DeepSeek on Government Devices Act," which will prohibit government devices from downloading and using the Chinese Communist Party's DeepSeek artificial intelligence software.

In a letter sent to congressional leadership Thursday, Attorney General Knudsen outlined the threat that DeepSeek poses to the United States. The platform has the capability to send user data directly to the CCP and users may unknowingly be creating accounts in China, making their identities and online behavior visible to the Chinese government.

China continues to be one of the biggest national security threats facing the United States. In 2023, a Chinese spy balloon was caught flying over Montana. In December, the U.S. Treasury Department was notified it had been hacked by China and gained access to employees' workstations and stole data from a committee that reviews foreign investments for national security risks. In November, it was announced that China had been conducting cyberespionage aimed at Americans who work in government and politics.

"DeepSeek is a trojan horse sent in by the Chinese Communist Party to spy on our country. It poses a serious national security risk and should not be allowed on government devices," Attorney General Knudsen said. "I have already banned the platform at the Montana Department of Justice because we know DeepSeek is tracking users' search history, IP addresses, and keystroke patterns then giving that information to the Chinese government. China continues to be one of the biggest threats facing our nation. I urge Congress to pass this legislation to ban DeepSeek on government devices."

DeepSeek has already been blocked on government devices in Canada, Australia, South Korea, and Taiwan. While Italy has blocked the program across the country. DeepSeek is also linked to China Mobile which has close ties to the Chinese military and has been sanctioned by the U.S. government.

"Congress should protect America's national security by banning DeepSeek on government devices. If it has not already taken action to administratively ban DeepSeek, we trust that the Trump Administration would swiftly implement this ban to protect our national security from America's "potent and dangerous" adversary," the attorneys general wrote.

Attorney General Knudsen is committed to protecting Montanans from CCP efforts and technology used to spy on them. He has banned DeepSeek on Montana Department of Justice devices. His office wrote and helped pass the law that banned the Chinese spying tool TikTok in Montana during the 2023 legislative session. In December, he led a brief asking the Supreme Court to uphold the national TikTok ban.

Commerce's State Small Business Credit Initiative Program Expands Access to Capital

New application rounds open in March and May

The Montana Department of Commerce announced today that two funding opportunities have been expanded to help Montana entrepreneurs and small businesses strengthen, expand and innovate. The funding is through Commerce's State Small Business Credit Initiative Program.

"Montana's small businesses are growing, and with additional funding opportunities on the horizon, more entrepreneurs or small businesses will have the capital they need to take root and thrive," said Montana Department of Commerce Acting Director Mandy Rambo.

Application rounds for upcoming funding opportunities:

- SSBCI Funds A new application round for obligating the remaining SSBCI 2.0 program funds will open on May 20, and run through June 30, 2025. More details, including the total amount available for funding, will be announced closer to the application period.
- Recycled SSBCI Funds Beginning March 10, the application to utilize recycled SSBCI 2.0 funds for new investments will open. This ongoing process allows implementing agencies, such as participating lenders, to reinvest principal repayments from previous SSBCI loans, keeping funds in circulation to support Montana's small businesses. The application will remain open for the duration of the program, with capital availability contingent on repayments from existing borrowers. Businesses and primary lenders interested in accessing recycled funds can view the list of participating lenders and contact them directly for available balances and to begin the application process.

To ensure clarity and consistency for lenders and business owners seeking funding, Commerce posted an updated SSBCI Loan Participation Program Policy to its website.

The SSBCI is a federal program designed to increase access to capital for small businesses across the nation. The funds support a loan participation program, helping businesses expand, innovate and strengthen the state's economy.

For more information and to apply, visit commerce.mt.gov.

First Responders on Scene of Semi Truck Accident on MT-41 Near Twin Bridges

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

First responders are currently addressing a single vehicle accident involving a semi truck on MT-41 near mile marker 19. The semi has tipped over, resulting in the loss of its cargo. As emergency personnel work to manage the situation, the highway has been reduced to one lane, with first responders controlling through traffic to ensure safety.

According to the Montana Highway Patrol, there are reported injuries, although the extent of those injuries remains unknown at this time.

In a post on the Madison County Sheriff's Facebook page, travelers are advised to consider alternate routes, including Interstate 15 from Butte or US Highway 287 from Ennis to Island Park, to avoid delays and ensure safe passage through the area.

Further updates will be provided as more information becomes available.

HONORING WOMEN WARRIORS ATTRIBUTE TO BEAVERHEAD COUNTY WOMEN VETERANS

The Beaverhead County Museum is excited to introduce a new exhibit dedicated to honoring the women veterans in our community, recognizing their bravery and vital contributions to the military. We encourage women veterans to share their stories for this impactful display.

To take part, please submit a wallet-sized photo, ideally in uniform, along with information about your years of service, military branch, and rank achieved.

You can send your submissions via email to bvhdmuseum@hotmail.com, drop them off in person at the museum from Monday to Friday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., or contact Candi Whitworth at 406-683-5027 for further information.

Please remember that the deadline for submissions is April 1st. We are eager to celebrate the remarkable contributions of these extraordinary women. Thank you for your service!
