SPECIAL MEETING OF THE CITY COUNCIL

March 14, 2025 12:01 P.M.

A. Discuss/Approve Payment For Westside Street Improvements

A. Decision To Close Meeting To The Public, Per Section 2-3-203(3), Mca

B. Reconvene In Open Meeting

C. Public Comment On Items Of Significant Public Interest Not On The Agenda And Within The Jurisdiction Of The City

D. Adjournment

Why a Closed Meeting

By: MJ

Question: Why is a public situation now private regarding the expansion of city of Dillon. Note: The city has announced there will be a closed meeting held for the construction/maintenance of Rife Street in a sub-division on west side of town. Remember all money spent by the local government is your tax payer dollars. Question: Could this Rife Street project cost increase into millions± of dollars and would the city have to pay? Is money the real issue?

How did this issue become a topic protected by closing the meeting. This topic has never been hidden behind closed doors. It has always been open to the public.

Back in the years of 2019-2020± the issue of Rife Street was discussed in depth with the city council, on numerous occasions and open to public. The Councils' decision made with property owner was in the best interest of the community and tax dollars being spent at the time.

Questions: Again I ask, why the secrecy of a closed meeting and what has changed to require it? Would large dollar amounts, like million± of tax payers' money be involved?

Law quoted by city representatives to allow them to close the meeting. LAW 2-3-203; closed only when body discusses matters involving individual privacy clearly exceeds the merits of public disclosure, the burden is on the person seeking closed meeting to overcome the perception of openness. Public bodies may also close meeting to discuss litigation strategy, but only when; (1) Litigation actually exists, (not just threatened), (2) open discussion will negatively affect the litigating position of the body; (3) litigant is a private-non-governmental party. A party may not close a meeting when the parties in litigation are both governmental entities.

Stay In-State and Ski This Spring

As Montana's ski areas continue to receive new snow this winter, many of the local mountains will remain open through early April, providing families looking for spring break plans with a final dose of winter adventure.

"You don't have to travel far to access world-class skiing right here in Montana," said Mitch Staley, chief marketing officer at Commerce. For families looking for a change of pace during their spring break travel, Montana's natural hot springs help everyone rejuvenate after a day on the mountain. Popular locations to soak after skiing include Jackson Hot Springs (near Lost Trail Ski Area), Elkhorn Hot Springs (near Maverick Mountain Resort) and Quinn's Hot Springs Resort (near Lookout Pass Ski & Recreation Area).

The abundant snowfall across the state has also provided excellent conditions for cross-country skiing, a great option for families looking for a more laid-back adventure. Top cross-country skiing destinations include Chief Joseph Pass in the Bitterroot Valley, the Red Lodge Nordic Center and Blacktail Mountain Nordic Trails, located near Lakeside.

Many ski areas in Montana also offer community-focused spring events to celebrate the last weeks of the ski season, which often provide some of the best conditions of the year. Events include Lost Trail's SmashLife Banked Slalom on March 8, Red Lodge's Throwback ThrowBIG Competition, on March 15, Showdown Montana's Little Belt Log Jam, on March 15, Montana Snowbowl's Vertical Challenge, on March 16 and Big Sky Resort's Spring Series, which takes place every weekend in April.

Dog sledding is another great winter activity for families looking to enjoy Montana's winter landscape. Places like Spirit of the North in Big Sky, Dog Sled Adventures Montana in Olney and Base Camp Bigfork offer guided dog sledding experiences. For families looking to attend a unique Montana event, Red Lodge hosts the National Finals Ski-Joring Races on March 8-9 at the Home of Champions rodeo grounds.

Learn more about Montana's 15 ski areas, nearby restaurants, hot springs and additional winter activities by downloading Montana's Winter Guidebook.

Changes to hunting regulations refer to drawing statistic information online

The 2025 Montana hunting regulations hit the shelves last month in advance of the new license year that started March 1, and hunters may have noticed a change.

For years, the hunting regulations contained pages for license or permit drawing odds from the previous year. The intent of these charts was to show hunters what the odds of drawing particular licenses or permits were from year to year. The problem is that these charts were largely misleading, and in some cases, just inaccurate.

- The charts didn't account for residency status. Nonresidents are capped at 10 percent of the drawing quota, which means far fewer licenses or permits are available to nonresidents than the statistics would indicate.

- The statistics didn't account for bonus points. The bonus point system in Montana is random by design. And though the odds of drawing a license or permit are higher the more bonus points you have, that's not always the way it works out.

- The statistics didn't account for landowner preference applications. Landowner preference licenses and permits are taken from the quota before the general drawing.

FWP publishes detailed drawing statistics on its website. Rather than publish inaccurate tables, as in the past, this year FWP is directing hunters to the drawing statistics online and a more comprehensive explanation of bonus points in the regulation booklets.

A recent legislative audit found that bonus points were generally misunderstood.

Remember, April 1 is the deadline to apply for deer and elk permits. May 1 is the deadline to apply for moose, sheep, goat and bison licenses. Don't wait, apply early.

Veteran's Corner Update #299
 By Mike Lawson
Veteran News Updates:

- In a recent press release the new Secretary of VA Doug Collins addressing Media concerns that Veteran's benefits might be targeted for cuts. He said "that's not happening... the reality is, Veterans benefits aren't getting cut." I, for one, am relieved to hear this as these benefits are the lifeblood for many many Veterans.
- The VA is implementing the move of requiring all VA employees to return to in-person work and telework is being phased out. This is a VA phased approach and by July, 2025, all VA personal will be working on-site.
- The VA is pleased to announce that the "2025 VA Federal Benefits Guide for Veterans, Dependents, Survivors, and Caregivers." is out. It can be downloaded from the VA website or pick up a printed copy at any VA regional office or Vet Center. This guide covers: Compensation, Life Insurance, Pension and fiduciary services, Education benefits, Economic development and employment, Home loan guaranty programs and housing assistance, Mental health resources. This is important information and well worth getting a copy to browse through.
- Many of us are getting older and thinking about not being a burden on our loved ones when our journey on earth comes to an end. Any Veteran can be buried in a VA national or state cemetery. The VA can help you plan this, as well as ordering a headstone or other memorial item to honor a Veteran's service. They can also help you apply for survivor and dependent benefits. See a Veteran's representative for taking the steps to plan this end of life action.

The longer days are a welcome and the construction season is already getting geared up. Here in Montana warmer seasons are when the highways are being rebuilt and traffic is affected. It's a necessity evil and makes our roads safer as well as providing jobs for the workers.

HONORING WOMEN WARRIORS ATTRIBUTE TO BEAVERHEAD COUNTY WOMEN VETERANS

The Beaverhead County Museum is excited to introduce a new exhibit dedicated to honoring the women veterans in our community, recognizing their bravery and vital contributions to the military. We encourage women veterans to share their stories for this impactful display.

To take part, please submit a wallet-sized photo, ideally in uniform, along with information about your years of service, military branch, and rank achieved.

You can send your submissions via email to bvhdmuseum@hotmail.com, drop them off in person at the museum from Monday to Friday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., or contact Candi Whitworth at 406-683-5027 for further information.

Please remember that the deadline for submissions is April 1st. We are eager to celebrate the remarkable contributions of these extraordinary women. Thank you for your service!
