Jaycee Demo Derby

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

— Saturday, June 14, marked a fun-filled day in Dillon as the Jaycees hosted their annual Demolition Derby followed by the Summer Kickoff Concert at the Beaverhead County Fairgrounds Rodeo Arena.

This year's derby featured the full-size class and the ever-popular Herby Derby, drawing enthusiastic spectators from across the community. Between matches, fans enjoyed UTV barrel racing, where competitors navigated a clover-shaped course, aiming for the best time without knocking over any barrels.

Adding to the excitement, the event showcased the thrill of lawnmower racing. These aren't your average lawn mowers — they are specially built for speed, and the high-speed races around the track provided adrenaline-pumping entertainment. One rider emerged as the winner, taking home a $500 prize.

The evening's festivities concluded with a concert headlined by Montana's own Tim Montana, drawing a large crowd eager to enjoy great music and the summer atmosphere.

Results: Best of Show ~ Nicole Hull;

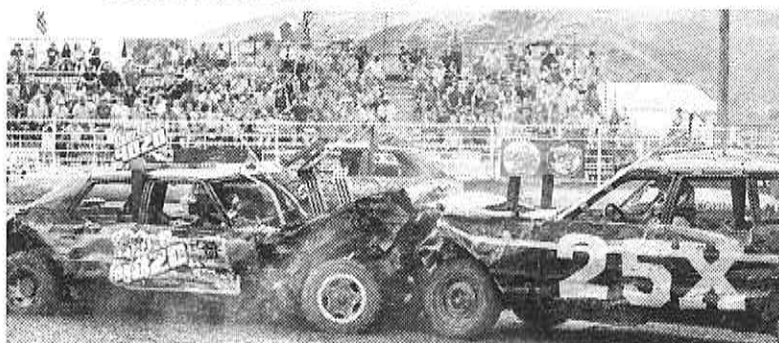

Class 2 listed in order ~ Nick Clark, Andrew English, Levi Turner, Gage Hoerning, Cody Rustad and Nicole Hull;

UTV Races ~ Bobbie Cox, Chase Maloney, Gunner Westfall;

Herbie Class 1 ~ Ryan Clark, Kevin Turner, Jeremiah Johnson, Brian Brewer;

Lawn Mower Races ~ Christopher Ross;

Mad Dog Award ~ Colby Peterson.

Toilet tips, wildflower advice and baby talk HOW TO LEAVE NO TRACE

And have a successful Montana Adventure this summer

Floating the Smith River is a coveted experience for floaters from all over the country. Every year thousands of people apply for a permit and those lucky enough to draw one are in for an amazing adventure through one of Montana's most famous state parks.

Keeping this park pristine takes an emphasis on practicing Leave No Trace principles. In the video below, Lauren Karnopp visits the put-in on the Smith River, Camp Baker, to witness the hectic chaos of getting five parties of rafters on the river and into their adventure safely. She also gives viewers insight of what Leave No Trace means on the Smith and on all outdoor adventures.

PLEASE, DON'T TOUCH

To help baby animals survive, leave them alone

If you're out and about outside or even at home and you notice a baby animal alone, don't take pity. Take off. You might think you're saving a life, but you're actually risking it.

YOU BELONG AMONG THE WILDFLOWERS

Wildflower tips for the amateur botanist

BIRDING FOR BOOMERS

And everyone else brave enough to embrace one of the world's most rewarding and frustrating activities

It's no secret that Montana has an older population. Our median age ranks among the highest in the nation. Many view that as a bad thing. After all, it limits the size of our workforce and makes it less likely that Taylor Swift will include Billings or Missoula on her next world tour. On the other hand, as the years stack up, so do wisdom and experience. Even better, it means more of us have time to pursue the world's greatest activity: birding.

WHERE THE BUFFALO JUMPED

First Peoples Buffalo Jump State Park and National Historic Landmark is an archaeological site with possibly the largest bison cliffjump in North America.

Native peoples used this site for at least a thousand years before Lewis and Clark passed through here. The bison jump site consists of a mile long sandstone cliff; there are remnants of drive lines on top of the cliff and there are up to 18 ft. of compacted buffalo remains below the cliff. The park has an interpretive trail, picnic tables and a black-tailed prairie dog town to help the visitor better understand the epic history of hunting on the high plains.

Hoot-owl restrictions take effect today on section of Madison River

Hoot-owl restrictions take effect today at 2 p.m. on the upper Madison River above Hebgen Lake. Hoot-owl restrictions prohibit fishing from 2 p.m. to midnight each day. These restrictions will stay in effect until conditions improve.

FWP's drought policy provides for angling restrictions when flows drop below critical levels for fish, when water quality is diminished or when maximum daily water temperatures reach at least 73 degrees for three consecutive days. Water temperatures of 77 degrees or more can be lethal to trout.

These restrictions are designed to protect fish that become more susceptible to disease and mortality when conditions like this exist. One short-term strategy to address heat-induced stress in Montana's wild trout is to reduce catch-and-release mortality by alerting anglers to fish only in the morning.

Anglers can reduce stress on fish at all times of the year by getting fish to the net or in hand quickly, keeping them in the water and reviving them prior to releasing them back into the river.

If high temperatures and extremely low flows persist, anglers may want to consider fishing areas with less stressful temperatures and conditions, such as larger lakes or reservoirs, or higher elevation waterbodies.

Along with monitoring stream temperatures, FWP also monitors stream flows and in some streams holds instream flow water rights. FWP's water program can issue a call on junior water users, when appropriate, to contribute to stream flows through the late summer and early fall.

UMW English Students Share Research at UC Davis Conference

University of Montana
English majors
Selika McGlynn
and Rebecca Shandy presented their original research
at Connections
2025, an academic conference hosted by graduate students at the University of California, Davis. Their papers were developed as part of the final project in LIT 228: Italian Late Middle Ages Literature, a co-taught course by Dr. Sean Eudaily and Dr. Bethany Blankenship.

The course explores major literary works from the Italian Renaissance, including texts by Dante Alighieri, Francesco Petrarch, and Giovanni Boccaccio. Designed around UMW's experiential learning model, LIT 228 blends Dr. Eudaily's expertise in Renaissance political and classical philosophy with Dr. Blankenship's specialization in literary analysis.

As part of the class, students submitted abstracts to a real academic conference. Drs. Eudaily and Blankenship selected Connections, hosted annually by UC Davis graduate students, for its theme—landscapes—and its encouragement of undergraduate participation. Several students had their abstracts accepted, and this year, McGlynn and Shandy traveled to California to present in person.

"Attending the conference gave me real insight into literary research and academic discussion with people from across the country," said Shandy, a junior. "Presenting my paper was nerve-wracking but a fantastic opportunity to be pushed out of my comfort zone within my literary studies."

Her paper examined the physical and psychological landscapes of despair in Dante's Inferno and Boccaccio's The Decameron. She noted that the course challenged her to think critically and approach research more independently. "My goal for this class was to try my hand at conducting some of my own academic research. Being given the chance to apply for the conference, be accepted, and present helped me achieve that goal."

Shandy also praised the dual-instructor format. "Having both Dr. Blankenship and Dr. Eudaily co-teaching one block class was great. I feel like I was pushed to expand my thinking, writing, and research in new ways due to having multiple perspectives in the classroom. This course stands for what X1 is all about."

For McGlynn, who has since graduated and been accepted into the Master's in English program at Montana State University in Bozeman, the experience was a rewarding capstone to her undergraduate career. "Overall, my experience was very fun," she said. "The conference was hosted by graduate school students and included many different study groups that focused on landscapes."

She initially doubted her work would be accepted. "When I got the email that I was chosen to present, I stared at it and just thought, 'There is no way.' I had finished my thesis just a week or two before, so it actually worked out really well."

McGlynn's paper analyzed how Dante and Boccaccio used the city of Florence as a psychological landscape. "Dante used his exile as inspiration for Inferno, creating a hellish landscape drawn from political events he had witnessed. Boccaccio, on the other hand, wrote The Decameron during the plague, beginning with death and horror in Florence before retreating into a symbolic Eden—a walled garden in the countryside."

She also reflected on the course's unique structure. "Having the opportunity to learn from both the literary and historical sides of the material brought the class to life in a new way. I would definitely recommend taking a dual class with Dr. Blankenship and Dr. Eudaily if there is one open!"

Dr. Blankenship sees opportunities like these as essential to English studies. "One of the best ways to teach literature experientially is to have students do what scholars do: read deeply, write critically, and share their work with the academic community," she said. "We're incredibly proud of Selika and Rebecca for representing UMW so well on a national stage."

Veteran's Corner Update #313
By Mike Lawson
Veteran News Updates:

- Happy Birthday to the Army's 250th Birthday. General Washington, being our 1st President, would be proud of how the US Army has progressed in the 2 1/2 centuries they were created to help fight for the freedom we enjoy today. Later this year the United States Marine Corps will celebrate their 250th Birthday on November 10th. To all our veterans, no matter what military service you served, thank you for your service in keeping our country free as our former service members before us did. Some were wounded and some gave their lives. Freedom isn't free but has always been on the backs of our veterans who have served from our beginnings, 250 years ago to this very day. Let's never forget them and let's never forget the privilege of being a citizen in this country of the free, the USA.

- Saturday, our Mining Museum, one of the best in the world, was the site of our Southwest Montana United Veteran's "Honor Guard" performing a US Flag Retirement and Disposal Ceremony. It was also a new US Flag Raising Ceremony. The new flag replaced the old worn/tattered and disposed flag. It was a solemn and respectful event. Those of us on the Honor Guard Detail felt honored and privileged that we were able to perform this with humble respect and dignity.

- Veterans benefit from early lung cancer detection. Veteran's are twice as likely to develop lung cancer than the national average. The VA at one location is doing early detection and timely, personalized treatment with transforming outcomes. Nationwide, only about 25% of eligible people get screened for lung cancer. Many move around a lot and many don't maintain consistent primary care that can help them track their risks. Thanks to the VA health system, at-risk Veterans are automatically flagged for screening. Many of us have been exposed to Agent Orange, Burn Pits and other chemical exposures. Next time you see your primary care giver, ask for a lung cancer screening. It just might save your life.

- In 2022, among Veterans using VA health care, the risk of suicide was 110% higher for Veterans who had experienced homelessness than for those who hadn't. This is why ending Veteran homelessness isn't just about housing but is about saving lives. Many factors contribute to a Veteran wanting to end it all and commit suicide. The VA has help. If you're a homeless Veteran or know a homeless Veteran, call the National Call Center for Homeless Veterans at 877-4AID-VET (877-424-3838).

May you all have a great week.

THE LONGEST DAY

alzheimer's association

Alzheimer's "The Longest Day" June 21st

Join the local ADK chapter of educators and The Dillon Public Library in their fight on Alzheimer's. There will be a showing of "Iris" at The Depot Theater at 3pm. This enlightening movie starring Kate Winslet & Judi Dench is based on a true story and explores the harsh realities of Alzheimer's. Informational resources will also be available. From 5-8pm The Brewery is hosting a "pint night" to help us help others in our fight to outshine the darkness of Alzheimer's. Refreshments will be provided.

The funds raised will advance the care, support, and research efforts of the Alzheimer's Association.

Thank you for your support!
