Montana Highway Patrol commissions 17 new troopers

The Montana Highway Patrol (MHP) commissioned 17 new troopers, the largest class in the last 20 years, at a graduation ceremony in Helena Friday. Attorney General Knudsen and MHP Colonel Kurt Sager addressed the new troopers prior to their badge pinning.

"The new troopers will join the ranks of some of the best and bravest law enforcement officers in the country. I'm proud of their decision to join the Montana Highway Patrol and confident in their ability to protect Montanans and their communities," Attorney General Knudsen said.

"It's a privilege to welcome these 17 new troopers to the Montana Highway Patrol. These men and women are ready to serve their communities with pride and dedication as we continue to carry out our mission of protecting Montana's roads and highways," Col. Sager said.

The new troopers were part of the 81st MHP Advanced Academy. They have spent 24 weeks going through an intense training schedule. The new troopers come from across the United States including Missouri, Pennsylvania, Oregon and California. Twelve of the new troopers are from Montana.

A promotion ceremony was held following graduation. Lucas Herl was promoted to Impaired Driving Section Sergeant and Andrew Horton was promoted to the Detachment Commander in Libby.

The Montana Highway Patrol is currently recruiting for trooper positions through July 20.

Surplus Central Flyway swan licenses available Monday

Surplus swan licenses, valid in the Central Flyway, will be available for purchase on a first-come, first-served basis beginning Monday, June 23, at 5 a.m. FWP received fewer applications than licenses available in the drawing, which took place earlier this month, leaving 238 unclaimed licenses.

These surplus licenses can be purchased online at ols.fwp.mt.gov/, or in person at any FWP office. These licenses can sell out quickly, so be sure to log on early if interested.

For more information, contact the FWP licensing office at 406-444-2950 or fwplc@mt.gov.

Bulldog Chain Gang, Fitzgerald Recognized by Frontier Conference

Frontier Conference Commissioner Dr. Scott Crawford announced a handful of annual conference award recipients and nominees, with two honorees representing the University of Montana Western: The Bulldog Football "Chain Gang" received the Frontier Conference Distinguished Service Award, and Jace Fitzgerald was named the conference's nominee for the NAIA A.O. Duer Award.

"Chain Gang" earns Frontier Conference Distinguished Service Award

The Montana Western football chain gang has received the 2025 Frontier Conference Distinguished Service Award, recognizing 20 years of commitment, consistency and professionalism on the sidelines of Bulldog football games.

Led by Donnie Keltz since its inception, the group has remarkably maintained the same core volunteers for every home football game over the past two decades. Their dedication is especially noteworthy at a time when colleges across the country face increasing challenges with staffing game day operations.

Known for their reliability, attention to detail and courteous demeanor, the crew has earned praise from Frontier Conference officials and opposing teams alike. Their commitment to representing Montana Western with class has made them a staple of the game day experience at Montana Western.

The Distinguished Service Award honors individuals or groups who go above and beyond in service to the conference and its student-athletes.

Fitzgerald named Frontier Conference A.O. Duer nominee

Fitzgerald has been named the Frontier Conference's 2025 nominee for the A.O. Duer Award, presented by the NAIA to one male and one female student-athlete who demonstrate outstanding character, scholarship and citizenship.

Fitzgerald, a business administration major, carries a 3.95 cumulative GPA. He is a member of Chi Alpha Sigma, the National College Athlete Honor Society, and has earned College Sports Communicators Academic All-District, Daktronics Scholar-Athlete and Frontier Conference Academic All-Conference honors.

On the field, Fitzgerald started all 12 games at linebacker during the 2024 season, earning first-team all-conference honors after finishing with 81 total tackles, including 40 solo stops, nine tackles for loss and 4.5 sacks. He also recorded six pass breakups, helping to lead one of the league's top defenses. He ranked No. 10 in total tackles across the Frontier Conference.

In the community, Fitzgerald is a regular volunteer at youth sports camps hosted by Montana Western and serves as a youth coach in football, basketball and baseball. He also works with "Hook a Kid on Golf," a Dillon-based program that teaches fundamentals of the game while promoting healthy habits and sportsmanship.

Fitzgerald was recently selected to wear Montana Western football's legacy No. 18 jersey for his senior season—an honor awarded annually to the student-athlete who best represents the legacy of M.J. Simkins, a former Bulldog whose name is synonymous with integrity, leadership and service.

Lovett, Bulldog Volleyball Named Frontier Conference Character Award Honorees

Frontier Conference Commissioner Dr. Scott Crawford announced the league's Champions of Character nominees to the NAIA national office this week. Montana Western head volleyball coach Katie Lovett was named the Frontier Conference Coach of Character, and the Bulldog women's volleyball team was selected as the conference's Women's Team of Character.

Katie Lovett – Montana Western Women's Volleyball Head Coach – Frontier Conference Coach of the Year

Lovett, who led the Bulldogs to the most successful season in program history, is a passionate advocate for character-driven leadership on and off the court. She is a strong supporter of the Senior Woman Leader (SWL) position within the conference, working closely with other SWLs to highlight its significance and empower those serving in similar roles.

Lovett integrates the NAIA's Champions of Character values directly into her program culture. One of her signature initiatives involves student-athletes leading regular team presentations on topics such as mental health, relaxation techniques, nutrition, and the importance of being a good teammate. These peer-led discussions foster leadership, responsibility, and personal growth while reinforcing the team's core values.

On the court, Lovett guided her team to a historic campaign, including a monumental upset over previously undefeated and No. 1-ranked Northwestern (Iowa) in the NAIA National Tournament. Her ability to maintain a character-first culture while competing at the highest level is a testament to her coaching philosophy.

Off the court, Lovett and her team are deeply engaged in the Dillon community. Each spring, nearly every member of the program volunteers as a coach for local youth club volleyball teams, offering mentorship and skill development to young athletes. Lovett models this commitment herself, serving as an active member of the Dillon Chamber of Commerce and helping to build strong connections between Montana Western and the broader community.

Montana Western Women's Volleyball Team – Frontier Conference Women's Team Character

The Bulldog volleyball team was recognized as the Frontier Conference Women's Team of Character for their continued commitment to servant leadership and social responsibility. In addition to mentoring youth athletes, the team is a consistent leader in promoting and participating in campus events that support awareness and social justice initiatives.

This past year, the Bulldogs were active in events such as "Walk a Mile in Her Shoes," which raises awareness of sexual assault and gender violence, and the campus Color Fun Run, supporting sexual assault prevention efforts. Their visible, vocal, and respectful presence at these events reflects their commitment to being leaders beyond athletics.

The team's season was capped by a historic first home playoff victory against Oregon Tech. In a powerful display of sportsmanship and humility, the Bulldogs paused their celebration to join Oregon Tech's post-match circle—honoring both teams' journeys and reflecting the very values this award seeks to celebrate.

Attorney General Knudsen launches investigation into Lee Enterprises

Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen launched an investigation Wednesday into Lee Enterprises, a multistate media company, following a cyberattack that compromised thousands of subscribers' personal information.

Attorney General Knudsen is bringing the investigation under Montana's Consumer Protection Act which exists to safeguard Montanans' online personal and financial information. According to reports, nearly 40,000 employees and subscribers were affected, and the stolen data includes first and last names, as well as Social Security numbers.

The Civil Investigative Demand (CID) gives Lee Enterprises one month to respond.

"Identity theft associated with data breaches threaten Montanans' financial security," Attorney General Knudsen said. "It is my job as Attorney General to protect Montanans by ensuring companies that collect and store our personal and financial information do so responsibly and comply with all applicable laws."

Attorney General Knudsen is demanding the company identify the type of information they collect from customers and for what purpose it is used, as well as when and how they notified customers.

In Montana, Lee Enterprises owns the Billings Gazette, Helena Independent Record, Missoulian, Montana Standard, and Ravalli Republic.

Dillon Garden Club June Workshop

The Dillon Garden Club will be offering a Bonsai Tree workshop on Monday, June 23, at 6:00 pm. The event will be held at 442 Kentucky Avenue (in the alley behind the High School Gym). We are thrilled to have Joshua Richards (Roxi's Greenhouse) instructing how to plant and train bonsai trees. There will be a $10 fee per participant for his instruction and handouts.

Our wonderful hosting club member has kindly offered to provide the soil and wire needed to repot and begin training your bonsai at this hands-on event.

If you don't have a Bonsai tree yet, you can still attend the workshop for only $10 and receive training information and handouts. Feel free to text or call Mary for more information at 406-925-2903.
