PINTO BEANS

By "Swede" Troedsson

Every time I crockpot some pinto beans with a ham hock I am reminded of Dr. Gil Preston.

In the late nineteen sixties, Gilbert Preston was a physician in Dillon, Montana. He would invite me to accompany him on an elk hunt. His plan was to use me to chase elk into him.

One Christmas, he presented me with a fifty pound sack of pinto beans! He informed me that they would last a LONG time and provide a forever source of survival food.

I stored those beans in a stoneware crock in my basement. To this day in 2025, those pinto beans still provide a source for crockpotting ham hocks and pinto beans. I've hardly made a dent in that crock full of beans!

I suspect that when I pass on they will still provide a source of food for my children, and their children's children.

Montana Board of Housing Celebrates 50 Years

Many of us can vividly recall our first apartment rental experiences. For me, it was a single-family home shared with three college roommates, then an upper floor in a triplex where the kitchen fan spun itself off the ceiling and crash landed on the dining room table, followed by a non-conforming daylight basement unit with mold growing on every window. These were not glamorous experiences, but they were what I could afford and what was available on the market.

Some of us have been blessed, through hard work, luck and favorable market conditions, to become first-time homebuyers. For me, it was a sweat equity short sale under the third runway easement of a large international airport necessitating over 60 cubic yards of debris removal in the first weekend. But it was our home, our garden, our sanctuary and we took pride in our amateur DIY renovation efforts.

Those of us who work in the affordable housing space have the privilege of supporting individuals and families with their first ventures in apartment leasing, transitioning to a rental home they can better afford and even witnessing the American Dream in action at the closing table as a family receives the keys to their first home.

Over the last 50 years, the Montana Board of Housing, which is administratively attached to the Montana Department of Commerce, has partnered with organizations statewide who regularly experience these inspiring moments. Imagine assisting an individual moving inside after experiencing homelessness for a decade or more, or supporting a single mom regaining custody of her little boy with a safe, affordable apartment on Christmas Eve, or helping seniors stay in their homes with a fair and reputable Reverse Annuity Mortgage loan or providing first-time homebuyer counseling to a family who works and saves for a down payment to close on their first home.

I've been fortunate to experience many such moments throughout my career, as have all members of the MBOH team. Each time, these moments remind me of a childhood memory. My parents, an electrician and a nurse, worked to build a new construction home for our family. My brothers and I would hang out at the job site after school (safely) while my dad ran the electrical. My mom, a music lover, asked my dad to wire surround sound speakers in various rooms of the house. The day we moved in, mom cranked the stereo with Kenny G's saxophone music and ran through the house crying. My parents both came from humble backgrounds; it had been a long journey of saving and sacrificing to build our new home. I credit this memory and their hard work for my chosen career path.

The MBOH certainly tracks all manner of data, but it's the human impact on Montana families and communities – which cannot be easily summed up in loan production volume or affordable rental unit counts – that drives our mission. With a safe and affordable home, families can thrive and flourish, communities become convening places for neighbors and new friendships and children retain stability in school. With a safe and affordable home, individuals have more flexibility to take risks and pursue entrepreneurial ventures, educational attainment in children improves and overall health and well-being are enhanced. A safe, affordable home is foundational to our ability to reach our full potential; without it, the stress of stacked-up bills and difficult decisions whether to purchase food, medicine or those desperately needed new shoes for our kids monopolize our minds every minute of every day.

The MBOH's cumulative support of first-time homebuyers includes 47,700 low-interest rate primary mortgage and down payment assistance loans, equating to nearly $3.8 billion dollars statewide. In addition to its support of Montana homebuyers, the MBOH portfolio includes over 9,500 affordable apartments and resident-owned mobile homes with long-term periods of affordability (30 to 50 years) and an in-house mortgage servicing portfolio with over 6,200 active loans. You can learn more about our history and impact on our website, which includes a slideshow video and timeline.

Perhaps you or a person you know has benefited from an MBOH loan, or you might live in an affordable apartment constructed with Housing Tax Credits allocated by our agency. And even if you don't, you might recall a time in your life that you experienced housing instability due to a spousal separation, loss of a job or a health diagnosis that upended your entire life and finances. Individuals and families supported by MBOH programs have experienced these and other struggles. We all need a hand up sometimes, and I'm tremendously proud that the MBOH – including our Board, staff, partners, investors, participating lenders, developers and others – could be this hand up for so many Montanans.

On June 19, 2025, Governor Gianforte signed HB 924 into law, establishing a new Montana housing trust within the broader Growth and Opportunity Trust. This legislation will provide statutory appropriations for affordable housing for the first time in Montana state history - but we won't rest on our laurels; with your continued support, we're rolling up our sleeves for another 50 years and beyond!

Secretary Christi Jacobsen help kick off Montana American Legion Boys and Girls State

Montana Secretary of State Christi Jacobsen was honored to usher in this year's Montana American Legion Boys State and American Legion Auxiliary Girls State at the Montana State Capitol. Secretary Jacobsen provided welcoming remarks and touched on the roles and responsibilities of the Secretary of State's Office.

"Thank you all for being here and participating in this significant event. Your presence signifies your commitment to civic engagement and leadership," said Secretary Jacobsen. "Remember, you are not just participants; you are the future legislators, governors, secretaries of state, business owners, teachers, and so much more. Your potential is limitless!"

Secretary Jacobsen shared her personal journey, detailing her background and path to elected office. She also urged the attendees to take advantage of the learning opportunities presented during the event.

"Soak up all the valuable information being shared. Each session is a step toward becoming knowledgeable and engaged citizens," she said.

"Thank you for the honor of speaking to you today," Secretary Jacobsen continued. "I look forward to seeing the remarkable contributions you will make in our state and beyond!"

During the week, participants of the Montana American Legion Boys State and the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State gained insights into local, county, and state government functions by conducting their own elections, meetings, legislative sessions, and court proceedings, among other activities.

Veteran's Corner Update #314
By Mike Lawson

Veteran News Updates:

- The state American Legion Convention was well attended from Legionnaires from all across our vast state of Montana and even a few Canadians. Friendships are renewed, politics are kept out of our meetings, unless it concerns Veteran issues that help or have the potential to help Veterans. Business is conducted, good times are had and the organization is refreshed. One of the goals is to get new younger Veterans to join and continue the efforts of helping our communities and other Veterans. Looking out for and helping each other is always a positive thing.

- Sometimes our women Veterans don't get the respect and attention they should. About 11 months into my first tour in Viet Nam I was wounded when I was with 1/9, "The Walking Dead". After getting stabilized, we were put on an Air Force plane on stretchers and were cared for by female Air Force nurses. Many of us hadn't seen an American woman for many months and these ladies were the most beautiful, kindest and caring angels we could have ever had. That long flight home under their care was spirit lifting and was a wonderful start to our recovery. Since then I have two daughters who were in the Air Force. One was in for 6 years and is a veteran of Desert Storm and the other retired after serving for 20 years. I have the utmost respect for women Veterans. It was encouraging to recently read about the VA providing premier health care for women Veterans. All VA medical centers offer dedicated and comprehensive women's health services. Call or text the Women Veterans Call Center at 1-855-VA-WOMEN (1-855-829-6636). It is free, confidential and staffed by women—many of whom are Veterans themselves.

- At our recent Convention a presentation was given on suicide, with a number of statistical factors presented. Just to mention a couple: 1) Physical activity reduces suicide risk. The recommendation is to engage in at least 30 min of physical activity five times a week. 2) the other was that the homeless were more apt to commit suicide. Getting them off the streets and into a safe living environment is a VA priority and is happening.
