Thank you

The Des Jardins family is extremely grateful for all your cards, flowers, hugs and prayers as we mourn the loss of Matthew. We feel lucky and proud to live in such a generous and caring community.

The support you all have shown is both comforting and humbling. A memorial is being planned for sprint 2026

Sincerely,
Bob (Des), Sue, and Zach

Thank you

The Beaverhead Community Food Pantry would like to thank everyone who participated in the 2025 Garden Tour!

It was a great success and we wanted to extend our heartfelt thanks to the following Raffle Prize Sponsors: Ace Hardware, Flower Frenzy, Murdoch's, Patagonia, Safeway, and Wildwood Flora.

Special thanks for the extra support from ERA Lambros Realty for the donation match this year!

Thank You

The Beaverhead County Museum Board of Trustees extends heartfelt gratitude to Rick Schwandt and R.E. Miller for their generous donation of both labor and expertise in addressing the leak near the Hamilton Fountain. We are deeply appreciative of their prompt response and the diligent work they undertook to resolve this issue. Operating on a limited budget, our museum greatly benefits from such contributions, which serve as a reminder of the wonderful community we are fortunate to be a part of.

Thank you,
Candi Whitworth, Executive Director

Will alcohol-free weddings catch on?

Tyrades! by Danny Tyree

"For whenever two or more of you are gathered in His name/ There is booze, there is booze..." – apologies to Paul Stookey

According to the Wall Street Journal, six percent of couples polled by wedding-planning website Zola will host a completely alcohol-free wedding in 2025.

(Coincidentally, six percent of America's potential guests find themselves telling each other, "Dear, I'd love to attend your sister's wedding in November, but I think that's the weekend I'm having an emergency elective root canal, darn it.")

Yes, whether it's because of health-consciousness, religious values or guilt about unleashing inebriated guests on the highway, more couples are embracing the "dry" weddings trend.

But their more traditional friends and family are ready to put up a fight against substitutes such as mocktails, coffee and soft drinks. And those aggrieved loved ones don't intend to holler "uncle." "Drunk uncle," perhaps, but not "uncle."

Generations of celebrants have come to regard wedding reception liquor as an outright entitlement. ("I believe Sir Isaac Newton said it best: "For every gift-wrapped toaster, there is an equal and opposite flow of vermouth.")

The wedding attendees even invoke scripture to bolster their position: "For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife: 'cause everybody wants an excuse to watch an impersonation of Tom Cruise in 'Cocktail'!"

"It's not really a wedding if you can't drop your inhibitions and have a little fun," is a familiar refrain. But when you consider that Aunt Zelda can accumulate four divorces, seven maxed-out credit cards and 273 speeding tickets while stone-cold sober, maybe we should keep some inhibitions handy.

Many people think it's an existential crisis to spend three or four hours in a room with fellow well-wishers without imbibing. I'm glad they somehow manage to control their other impulses, or wedding halls would ring with cries of "Anybody seen my toenail clippers? Hey, kid, quit bearing that ring and bear a can of Cheez Whiz instead and there's five bucks in it for you. Ahh...freedom for my man-boobs! What? They don't teach you about man-boobs in flower-girl school?"

There doesn't seem to be much middle ground. Most couples assume that the wedding day is THEIR Big Day. Many friends and relatives think the guests should be pampered. I guess they're looking for one of those $8 "ultra-deluxe speshul" ceremonies that Marryin' Sam promoted in the "Li'l Abner" comic strip. Sam would officiate while being drawn and quartered by four raging jackasses. ("Yeah, I could go for that. But I'll provide the four jackasses. See if your father and his brothers have gotten liquored up enough.")

If you're contemplating a dry wedding, don't be surprised if you suddenly get pushback from the cousins who built backyard forts with you, the former co-workers who braved countless deadlines with you, the little old ladies who taught you in Sunday school. ("Just lemme finish this second pot of coffee an' maybe I'll remember which of those categories I fit in. Hic")

If I sound prejudiced, it might be because my wife and I have been happily married for 34 years, even though our wedding reception boasted only the simple refreshments whipped up by the Methodist ladies and the single bottle of Pink Chablis that my father-in-law sprang for.

Love (or her threats to pencil in an emergency elective root canal) will keep us together.

Emergency closure issued for portion of Sun River

Montana Fish, Wildlife & Parks issued an emergency closure for the Sun River on July 23 due to construction work.

The Sun River is located in Teton County and Lewis and Clark County. The closure is from 500 feet upstream to 500 feet downstream of the Sun River Bridge, also known as the Pishkun Road Bridge. The construction work is to replace the Sun River Bridge.

The closure will remain in place until either the emergency rule expires or the construction is complete and the department determines the area is safe for the public to use.

Veteran's Corner Update #319
 By Mike Lawson
 Greetings to all of you who read my SW MT Veteran update articles. This week has had hot sweltering days and than cooler days with thunder showers. Living on the East Ridge we see the prevailing winds from the west and southwest blow in the clouds and storms. So far this year we have not been blanketed with forest fire smoke like we have in past years. Knock on wood. We have a weekly Farmer's Market every Saturday during the summer in our uptown historic Butte. Three of us Veterans set up a table/canopy representing the American Legion, DAV and the Marine Corps League. It was an information and recruiting effort on our part. We did visit with quite a few people and got some possible veterans who said they wanted to join. It was a fun experience to see folks walk by, some with their companion dogs. We also had some of the homeless folks moving through the market and visited with a couple of them. The ones we visited with were normal in our conversation exchanges. I feel for them and am glad we have the rescue mission and other organizations that gives help to them. I can't help but remember the saying "there go I but by the grace of God". Respect toward them goes a long way in making them feel accepted.
 I retired from teaching at Butte High School in 2001. It was a treat to see some of my former students stop and visit. Some have changed in appearance and it took me a minute to recognize them. Most are doing well in life and their kids are now adults. Life definitely moves on in spite of ourselves.

Veteran News Updates:

- As we get older we sadly see friends and acquaintances we've known for many years, get sick and suffer to even survive. An army Veteran, who was a helicopter pilot in Viet Nam and a strong SW Montana Veteran Home supporter, is struggling with a progressive cancer. It could very well be from Agent Orange which has caused many Vietnam Veterans to suffer a number of diseases, before passing away. Many prayers go out to Bill and veterans suffering like him.
- In Billings, Montana, is located the "Montana Veteran's Meat Locker" which supplies high quality meat to Montana's Veterans and their families, free of charge. To quote them, "Montana Veterans Meat Locker is bigger than one organization and it's network. We are a family

- and take care of our own." They take donations from ranches, hunters and do raffles. They go throughout the state and have a day and time set up to give meat bundles to Veterans. It's an amazing program and in our area they work hand in hand with the "Veteran's Food Pantry" in Deer Lodge, that supplies groceries to Veterans who only have to ask. It's again one of those "Veteran's Helping Veterans" volunteer movements in action.
- Many of us know or are friends with veterans who are in a crisis, that we're very worried about. Many of us have seen some of these individuals attempt or actually commit suicide. If at all possible to bring help to that Veteran, dial 988 or 800.273.8255 and press chat online, or text 838255. This service is provided free of charge by the Veterans Affairs Office of Inspector General (OIG).
- An interesting bit of Veteran history is that in 1918, our government created the first nationwide vocational training system to help disabled Veterans acquire new occupational skills and find meaningful work. Over the next 10 years, more than 100,000 Veterans completed training programs in every field from agriculture and manufacturing to business and photography. Jumping ahead to after WWII when the GI Bill was enacted and continues on to today, many of us Veterans have used it to go to college, trade school or in my case going through an apprenticeship.

August is upon us and tourism is at it peak here in Montana. Having Yellowstone Park on our southern border and Glacier National Park on our northwestern border, brings folks from across the country and the world into our state traveling across our highways. Doing our coffee stop fundraisers at our interstate rest stops, it has been a great opportunity to visit with them. We live in a wonderful country and we are free to move about in it. This is a freedom we should never take for granted. May you all have a great week, wherever you are.

Until next time, take care.

Honeyberries the new “Superberry”

Honeyberries have more polyphenols than tea, coffee, and red wine and five times the amount of phenols as blueberries - making it a formidable antioxidant superfood. Antioxidants help lower blood pressure, prevent heart disease, cancers, cardiovascular diseases, diabetes, osteoporosis and neurodegenerative diseases. The phenolic content in this berry is directly associated with its color and flavor. The Honeyberry has a flesh that is reddish-purple, maintaining the high phenol content throughout the entire berry. This gives the Honeyberry a higher antioxidant score and superior health benefits when compared to most berries.
