Firefighters Respond to Garage Fire on East Morse Street in Dillon

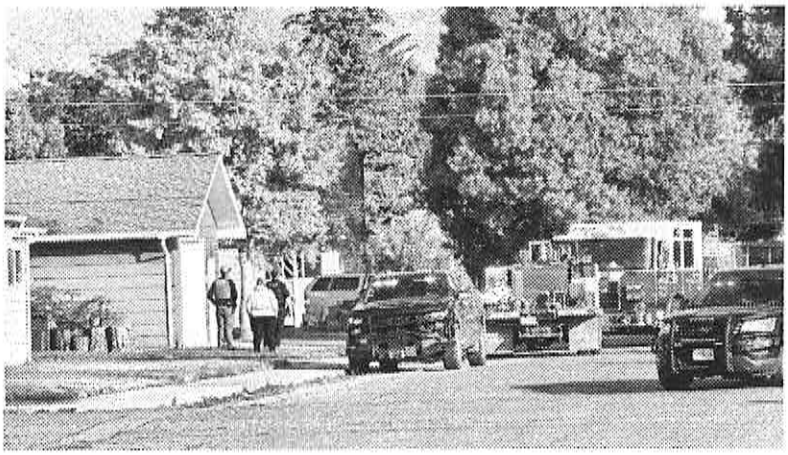

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

Friday morning, the Dillon Volunteer Fire Department responded to a reported fire on East Morse Street. The caller informed dispatch that the gutter on the side of a homeowner's garage was on fire.

Fortunately, the homeowner acted quickly by using a garden hose to help extinguish the flames before the fire department arrived. Thanks to the homeowner's prompt action, the fire was contained, preventing extensive damage to the garage.

Firefighters arrived shortly after and assessed the scene. Little damage was reported, and the fire was fully extinguished.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation, but authorities suspect it could have been sparked by a short circuit or a spark from a nearby power line. Further investigation will determine the exact origin of the flames.

Terminus Distilling Company Updates

Katrina & Derek Lewis

We have been happily busy this summer and want to catch you up on both June and July. Get ready for a packed newsletter with all sorts of updates and links!

Building

The Small Tasting room is fully framed and the walk up window is installed. We're lucky to have a group of strong friends that helped us hang a large, wooden door as part of one of the walls. It's 8'x12' and has to weigh between 400-500lbs. To protect it and highlight its natural sheen, Katrina has recently applied a coat of Danish Oil.

You might wonder: where did we find such a large door? Derek found it (and its pair) under a section of the built-up floor, laid on top of an original ramp that led from N. Idaho St. (locals you'll notice the difference in siding to the left of the N. Idaho Street entrance).

This door discovery encouraged us to more deeply research the history of the building. While the Montana Cadastral says the building was erected in 1920, Derek has found multiple items that were from the 1910's, including Poor Tax receipts from 1913 and 1915, an Olmsted-Stevenson Co receipt from 1914, and a Western Union telegram from 1917. He's also found a number of undated items, like empty receipt books for Olmstead-Stevenson and tags for The Waldorf Company. Katrina found an article from 1980 that mentioned the building had been a wholesale grocers, then decided to turn to the Beaverhead County Museum for some help. She has since spent some wonderful time with Chris Montgomery, Michelle Stephen-Hassard, and Candi Wentworth following these leads (and a few others). What turned out to be the key to the mystery: stapled to one of the large wooden doors was a scrap of an advertisement for hardware and groceries. Katrina spent some time looking up John W. Morton:

- 1884: Morton arrived in Dillon from Mayfield, Kentucky
- 1891: reporting from a sizable earthquake
- 1891: Morton listed his intentions for his grocery store
- 1891: a robbery at Morton's store including some "skillful examination and cross questioning by the marshal" (follow up a month later on one of the robbers)

- 1905: Morton consolidates with T. D. Olmsted
- 1910, April 7 Page A1: The John W. Morton company asked permission to erect a frame warehouse on North Idaho street. The application was referred to the fire committee.
- 1910, April 15, Page A1: Frank P. Birrer's workmen this week began construction work on a large warehouse for The John W. Morton company, located on the corner of Idaho and Virginia streets. The building will be one-story, 75-foot front, 115 feet deep, built of corrugated iron and will cost in the neighborhood of $3,000.

So, the mystery is solved! Our building was built by John W. Morton in 1910. Next month, we'll share some of his late 1800's and early 1900's advertising with you (it's a hoot) and in upcoming months we'll continue to trace the history of the building as it changed ownership.

Business / Community

June had us busy helping with the Tweedy Mountain Stick Horse Stampede, which fundraised for the Early Childhood Coalition of Beaverhead County. Kids and adults alike had a great time listening to Debbie from The Bookstore read aloud, diving into the Beaverhead County Chamber of Commerce pie eating contest, doing horse-themed crafts with the Dillon Public Library, and participating in the stick horse rodeo itself. We can't wait for next year.

Distillery

What a summer of cocktails and mocktails! We've been enjoying shrubs both ways. Here are a few of Katrina's favorites:

- Rhubarb shrub + gin + sparkling water + lemon. Thanks both to Swede and Jason for the rhubarb for recipe

- recipe testing.
- Chokecherry shrub + vodka + orange bitters + lime. Thanks to the chokecherry trees that line our boulevard.
- Strawberry jalapeño shrub + sparkling water + mint. Thanks to George and Marsha for their recommendation here.

Next up, honeyberry shrubs made with berries grown at Honeyberry Adventures. Honeyberries, also called haskaps, are cold hardy, drought tolerant, and look a like long, fat blueberries. These ones, grown at 6200ft in Lima, taste incredible – like a sweet and tart combination of raspberries and blueberries. Locals, u-pick is usually Friday 7-11am, Saturday, 7-11am, and Sunday 7-9am. Bring your own containers – we'll see you out there.

Katrina will soon start listing on our website the shrubs we have in inventory. She's been designing the labels and ensuring they meet the state requirements and approval of our local county health sanitarian. For those of you at a distance, there will be shipping options available. In August, we're looking forward to some gin and tonics on the front steps, mixing a vodka and bitters for the last Dinner in the Park, and hopefully making some ginger beer for the Dillon Farmer's Market later in the month.

Fifteenth Annual Cemetery Walk

The fifteenth annual Cemetery Walk presented by the Beaver Head Hunters Genealogical Society will be Saturday, August 9th at 2:00 pm. This year the theme is restaurateurs. Come learn about four members of the community who used to have eating establishments: Fern Wheeler, Ned C. "Skeets" Murray, Luanna Lyons, and Harriet Estes. Whether you ate at their place or not, you will be "fed" with information! The presenters this year will be Darlene Hildreth, Ruth Little, Bette Hull, and Michele Stephen-Hassard.

You are encouraged to bring a chair, water, and shade of some sort (umbrella, hat, etc.). Watch for the little red flags to show you where to start. See you there!

Soroptimist Football Books

The Soroptimist of Dillon have their annual football books for sale again this year. The books are for Sunday, Monday or Thursday nights. The cost of the books are $10 donation and you have a chance to win $25 for each game listed those nights. You don't have to watch or even know football to win! The winner is determined by the final score of each game and will contact the winner each week.

Books are available at Womack's Printing, 126 N. Montana Street.

Bozeman Symphony Welcomes New Board Leadership and Members

The Bozeman Symphony is proud to announce new leadership within its Board of Directors, along with the addition of two accomplished community leaders.

Ken May has been named Board Chair, with Skye Raiser elected as Vice Chair. Former Chair Ben Phinney will continue his service as Chair Emeritus. In addition, Nina Jaeger and Mark Juranek have been elected to serve three-year terms on the Board, effective July 1.

Nina Jaeger is the retired Director of Development at the Montana State University Alumni Foundation. Mark Juranek brings extensive business and financial expertise to the Board, having held leadership roles at Amazon Music, Starbucks, and PricewaterhouseCoopers, as well as experience as a certified public accountant.

"It is an incredible honor to serve as Board Chair of the Bozeman Symphony Orchestra," said Ken May. "I have deep respect for the extraordinary talent of our musicians, the visionary leadership of our Board, and the exceptional artistry of Maestro Norman Huynh, whose passion and creativity continue to inspire us all. I'm also grateful for the outstanding work of our Executive Director and dedicated staff, whose behind-the-scenes efforts make everything possible. The Symphony is not only a source of world-class music but a vital force that enriches lives and brings our community together. I'm especially thankful to Ben Phinney for leaving the Symphony in such a strong position and for his willingness to remain on the Board to help guide this transition."

"I'm extremely pleased to welcome our new Board leadership and two outstanding new members," said Executive Director Jacob Blaser. "Their leadership, professional experience, and passion for music align perfectly with the Bozeman Symphony's strategic growth plan. Their collaboration will be essential as we continue to inspire diverse audiences. I also want to express my gratitude to Ben Phinney for his exceptional leadership over the past six years, including three as Board Chair—helping guide the Symphony through transformative changes, from navigating the pandemic to conducting a national search for a new Music Director."

The Bozeman Symphony is governed by a 13-member Board of Directors dedicated to advancing its mission: to engage, unite, and uplift the human experience in Montana through music and the arts. Board members serve as goodwill ambassadors and play a critical role in the organization's long-term sustainability and success. Their support is reflected in active event participation, personal financial contributions, and advocacy for the Symphony's programs and impact.

Jaeger and Juranek join a distinguished group of directors, including Architect Paul Bertelli, retired Journalist Tom Bray, retired Chief Science Officer Gary Kunis, Asset Manager Liz Richards, retired Surgeon Dr. Charles Rinker, Insurance Industry CEO Robert Ritchie, Financial Advisor Michael Schmidt, and Higher Education Consultant Sara Jayne Steen.

For more information about the Bozeman Symphony and upcoming performances, visit bozemansymphony.org.
