Water Wisdom - Montana Fish Wildlife & Parks

Remember to boat safe this Labor Day

As summer winds down, we all want to squeeze in a few more adventures out on the water. In preparation for the last hurrah of Labor Day weekend, or just the final moments with family and friends under the summer sun, keep these safety tips and boating laws in mind.

Remember, water skiing and other towed recreation are not allowed from sunset to sunrise. If you are boating after sunset or before sunrise, all watercraft must have navigation lights.

Planning a sober ride both on the water and off keeps your family safe and ready for the next adventure. The effect of alcohol and drugs are increased while recreating outdoors in the hot, sunny weather. It can take 1/3 as much alcohol while boating to become intoxicated. The legal limit for operating a motorized boat and a vehicle is 0.08 percent alcohol by volume (ABV).

Share the water this Labor Day. Motorized boats are required to keep 75 feet from anglers. Check the boating regulations for wake restrictions. Motorized boats, including personal watercraft (PWC) such as jet skis and Sea-Doos, must stay out of designated swimming areas and away from towed persons or water skiers.

Motorboats and PWCs may not emit noise in excess of 86 decibels measured at 50 feet of distance. More restrictive noise standards are in effect for Flathead Lake, Echo Lake and Swan Lake.

Everyone deserves to enjoy Montana's incredible outdoor recreational opportunities. Please be safe in the final days of summer, and wear your lifejackets while on the water!

28th Annual - School Supply Drive 2025

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Nukes along the Beaverhead?

by Katie Bump

On August 12 the County Commissioners had a public meeting to review the draft Public Land Resource Use Plan being prepared for the County by a local committee of volunteers working with a consultant from Gallatin County. I was one of a few people present who were not associated with the committee. Some things in that 106-page draft Plan might surprise you!

Nuclear power is one of the surprises. According to the plan, Beaverhead County favors mining radioactive minerals for nuclear power production. The radioactive mineral deposits here are thorium, which is not presently used for nuclear power generation in the U.S. The thorium deposits in Beaverhead County and adjacent Idaho near Lemhi Pass have been known and explored by drilling, open cuts, and underground work since World War II. Public lands managed by BLM, the National Forest, and State and private lands are involved. These are recognized hazardous materials sites due to radiation levels. Present management of these sites seeks to limit human exposure and maintain soil and vegetation, keeping the hazardous material in place. There are serious health and safety concerns with downstream (surface and groundwater), and downwind effects of radioactive mine waste. The feasibility of developing any mine depends on many factors considered by the mineral owners: economic, environmental, and laws and regulatory concerns. A theoretical thorium mine is beyond the scope of Beaverhead County's ten-year resource use plan.

The County's plan also states it favors development of Small Modular Reactors (SMR's) for nuclear power generation. You have heard of modular homes? This is a similar concept, only instead of a house, a nuclear reactor is built off site, moved to a new location and assembled. This technology is currently in design phases. It is trendy to talk about because companies are seeking investors and selling shares of stock to build capital. So far, SMR's are not a proven technology. The push for SMR's is related to the intense power requirements of data centers, which companies want for data "mining."

In spite of all best-laid plans, a nuclear reactor of any size may accidentally release radioactivity, a health and safety risk, creating environmental contamination. Beaverhead County is a geologically active area subject to earthquakes, which could trigger a nuclear accident, and water to operate a nuclear reactor is scarce. Our roads, communication, and emergency response systems are not prepared for a nuclear spill. We are a rural county with a low population, so we are expendable in the minds of SMR proponents. Those affected by the downwind, downstream radiation are few and far between - they have no environmental justice.

This part of the County's Plan contrasts with the general concern expressed in the same document for preservation of traditional lifestyles in Beaverhead County such as ranching, mining, or rangeland and forest management. It would not preserve traditional lifestyles, improve air and water resources, forest, range, and wildlife habitat and fisheries, or recreation opportunities on public lands. Someday, an SMR salesman may stop by and try to talk us into contributing our land resources and future health and safety to their private benefit, but until then it seems premature, and beyond the scope of this ten-year County Land and Resources Plan.

You may find other surprises in this draft plan. Please take time to review a copy, available at the County's web site, or stop by the Courthouse for a paper version. The commissioners need your input within the next two weeks.

Montana Western Volleyball Opens 2025 Season at Palm Beach Juniors Classic

UMW Volleyball begins its 2025 campaign at the Palm Beach Juniors Classic, hosted by Keiser, Friday and Saturday (Aug. 15-16).

SCHEDULE

Friday, Aug. 15

Match 1 vs. IU East – 6 am MT/ 8 am ET | Watch Live | Live Stats

Match 2 vs. Taylor – 10 am MT/ 12 pm ET | Watch Live | Live Stats

Saturday, Aug. 16

Match 3 vs. Saint Francis – 12 pm MT/ 2 pm ET | Watch Live | Live Stats

Match 4 at Keiser – 2 pm MT/ 4 pm ET | Watch Live | Live Stats

BULLDOG BEAT

UMW enters 2025 ranked 11th nationally and is coming off its second straight 20-win season (25-10 in 2024, 22-8 in 2023). The Bulldogs ranked in the top 50 in a whopping 18 categories, including taking the top spot in both total attacks (5,657) and digs (2,734) while finishing second in block assists (574) and total blocks (343). They also ranked in the top 10 in the country for eight additional stats.

2024's biggest moment was in the post-season, when the Bulldogs knocked off top-rated Northwestern (Iowa) in 4 sets (25-19, 17-25, 25-19, 25-20) in the 2nd round of the NAIA National Tournament.

Returners: 13 players from last year's team are back in 2025, led by 2024 AVCA All-Region Honorable Mention Jordan Olson. Three of the 13 picked up All-Conference awards for their 2024 efforts: Olson was tabbed to the all-conference first team while Savana Warburton and Maxine Hoagland both earned a selection to the all-freshman team.

Newcomers: Montana Western added five true freshmen to its 2025 roster in Nora Dominick, Antonia Duncan, Kennedy Lingenfelter, Avery Look, and Jayda Ward.

In addition to the Palm Beach Juniors Classic, UMW will also take part in the Hells Canyon Grand Invitational (Aug. 29-30) to round out non-conference play. The Bulldogs will take on Walla Walla on Friday with matches against Arizona Christian and LC State following on Saturday.

In league competition, UMW will play 11 home and 11 on the road. Conference play begins with a three-game road trip before welcoming Dickinson State (Sept. 12) and Bismarck State (Sept. 13) for the first home contests of the season.

Bannack Days Thank You's

Thank you to everyone who donated to the Rag Doll and Candle making activities that were enjoyed by everyone who participated at Bannack Days.

The following people donated yards of fabric, spent hours cutting fabric, and/or helped children make rag dolls at Bannack Days and Kid's Day.

Many pounds of candle wax were also donated and used by visitors to make new, beautiful candles.

If I left your name off the list, please know it was unintentional,

Huckleberry hounds
Juicy information for berry pickers
It's huckleberry season in western Montana. Though nearly all hucks grow in the state's northwestern region, picking is a statewide calling. Picking berries is easy, but it helps to know where to look.
Here are some tips:
Huckleberries are most abundant between 3,500 and 7,000 feet.
Look for conifer forests with roughly 50 percent tree cover. The berries ripen in open or semi-open areas of old burns, old clear-cuts and avalanche chutes.
Collect on south-facing slopes at lower elevations starting around mid-summer, then move to other slopes and higher elevations as the season progresses.
Try not to encroach on other pickers territory.
As you pick, put the berries in a 1-quart plastic container with a U-shaped flap cut in the lid. Picking is often on hillsides. If you slip or stumble, your hard-earned hucks won't spill onto the ground.
Keep in mind that humans aren't the only ones looking for huckleberries. Watch out for grizzlies, make noise and carry bear pepper spray.

Exciting Updates to Jaycee Park
Friends of the Jaycee Park are excited to announce an update to the park. The wood chips will be removed and replaced with Playground Grass by Forever Lawn.

The playground will need to be closed during this process for safety reasons. The starting date planned for removal of the wood chips is Saturday, September 6th. RE Miller's crew will be there with equipment to haul and help.

Adult Volunteers Needed: The volunteers are needed to shovel and haul, with wheelbarrows, the wood chips to loader buckets. The only way to get chips out from around and under equipment is by physical labor!

If you can help, please stop in Womack's Printing Place, 126 N. Montana St, call 406-683-4903 or email dillonnews@womacksprinting.com and sign up or sign up at <https://www.justserve.org/projects/> Bring gloves, shovels or wheelbarrows if you have them Saturday, September 6th at 9:00 am until we are done.
