Op-Ed: Let 'er Buck - Rodeo finally gets its rightful recognition by being designated as Montana's State Sport

By Montana State Auditor James Brown of Dillon and State Representative Greg Overstreet of Stevensville

Later this week, cowboys and cowgirls from across the Treasure State will gather in Billings for the Montana Pro Rodeo Hall of Fame dinner. At that annual event, attendees will celebrate a bit of recent history – the 2025 Montana Legislature's designation of rodeo as Montana's official state sport. And rightfully so.

For generations, rodeo has been more than entertainment or the community event of the year. It has been a cultural tradition and way of life. The sport developed from native traditions of horsemanship, animal stewardship, goal setting, and fair competition. From the famed Livingston Roundup to the Miles City Bucking Horse Sale to the Indian Relay Races, rodeo showcases the Montana way of life and preserves family traditions and western values.

Some critics may say designating rodeo as the state sport, alongside Montana's other treasures like the Grizzly Bear, the Western Meadowlark, and the Bitterroot flower, is mere symbolism. But symbols matter. By choosing rodeo, Montanans sent a loud message that rural voices, agricultural traditions, and small-town values still hold meaning in a rapidly changing world. It tells this generation of 4H kids that the work they put in at the barn, the pride they take in livestock, and the skills they learn on horseback aren't relics — they are relevant to Montana's ranching and farming communities.

In recent years, we have watched rodeo and livestock production come under attack elsewhere, such as Los Angeles and San Francisco where rodeo has been banned. To protect Montana against such efforts, we brought forward this legislation. We were gratified to see it receive strong bipartisan support and overwhelming backing from citizens, rodeo associations, chambers of commerce, and agricultural organizations.

When Governor Gianforte signed this bill in April, he not only protected rodeo legally, he honored some of Montana's greatest athletes, including Bill Linderman, Dan Mortensen, Benny Reynolds, the riding Greenough girls, and many others whose grit and skill define the sport.

We are privileged to have helped give rodeo its rightful place in history — not just as a sport, but as a symbol of what makes Montana so special. We encourage Montanans to support youth rodeo, invest in arenas, and defend the sport against those who would prohibit it.

Victoria Pehlke Awarded Sigma Tau Delta Scholarship

University of Montana Western student Victoria Pehlke has been awarded a Sigma Tau Delta scholarship in recognition of her academic achievements and dedication to writing. The scholarship honors students who demonstrate excellence in English studies and contribute actively to their campus communities.

Pehlke, a double major in English and Business with minors in Pop Culture Studies and Professional Writing, has distinguished herself as a committed and talented student. She has also been deeply involved on campus, serving as a TRIO Advisor and peer tutor.

When asked about her reaction to receiving the scholarship, Pehlke said, "I couldn't believe it at first. Among hundreds of applicants, my submission was chosen. Receiving the email confirming the award filled me with pride, and I immediately called my parents to share the news."

She reflected on the significance of the recognition, both personally and academically: "It validates the hard work I've put into my extracurricular activities and my career goals. Academically, it motivates me to push myself further and embrace opportunities that enhance my learning and growth."

Pehlke credits Montana Western's block schedule with shaping her as a student and writer. "Being able to immerse myself in one subject at a time has allowed me to dive deep into the material," she explained. "This focused approach has improved my time management and enabled me to express my thoughts more clearly in my writing."

She is particularly proud of a poem she wrote for an Intermediate Creative Writing class, which she later adapted into a multimedia project. "It was a rewarding experience that allowed me to further express my creativity and connect my passion for poetry with visual storytelling."

According to her faculty advisor, Dr. Laura Wright, Pehlke has shown remarkable growth and initiative throughout her time at UMW. "I was pleased to recommend Victoria for the scholarship," Dr. Wright said. "She balances many academic commitments and has become increasingly confident as a student and writer. She advocates for herself and has carefully mapped her academic path, accomplishing so much in four years."

Looking ahead, Pehlke plans to pursue a career in publishing, with aspirations of becoming an editor or literary agent. She sees the scholarship as vital support in achieving these goals. "It has alleviated some financial burdens, allowing me to dedicate more time to my classes and extracurricular activities," she said. "This support enables me to engage in internships and workshops that are preparing me for my future career."

Dr. Wright emphasized the broader significance of Pehlke's achievement: "I'm so proud of Victoria for seeking out this scholarship. Her accomplishment shows the importance of using resources like Sigma Tau Delta, and I hope other students follow her model."

Commerce's New Capital Access Opportunity for Rural Montana Businesses Launching Soon
Preliminary application portal opening Oct. 1 for four weeks

The Montana Department of Commerce announced today that it will open the Opportunities in Rural Economies Loan Participation Program preliminary application portal from Oct. 1-28, 2025, giving partners four weeks to bring forward eligible projects.

Marta Bertoglio, director of the Montana Department of Commerce, said, "By streamlining our processes and partnering with economic development organizations, Commerce has made it easier to support growing businesses through innovative rural development efforts under the ORE Program."

The ORE application is designed as a multi-phase process. The first stage is the Preliminary Project Application, which serves to establish eligibility and obligate funds to the proposed project or business. Applications must come through an external partner organization or be supported by an enrolled economic development organization, and they will be reviewed on a rolling basis throughout the open window. All application determinations, approved or denied, will be communicated after the preliminary application portal closes on Oct. 28, 2025.

Once the applicant and external partner organization are ready, the process advances to the comprehensive application stage. This phase is more detailed and is used to collect the data required for Commerce to issue a commitment letter. At this point, a participating lender is required, and applicants should be prepared to provide financial information and project details that align with lender expectations.

SAVE THE DATE!

The Episcopal Diocese of Montana is sponsoring a Memoir and Mini-Retreat:

Deepening our Experience of God's Story, through reflecting on One Woman's Story.

Meet "Boundless": A Road Trip to Rejuvenation author
Carolyn Dawn Flynn.

It is a Becoming-of-Age Story

"This story is set at the intersection where the youthful coming-of-age narrative collides with the vanishing horizon of middle age - that's why I call it a becoming-of-age story. As I seek to revive my dreams, I must protect the hopes and dreams of my twins. The true test comes when every part of my identity as mother and journalist is stripped from me. As I am consumed with panic attacks and thoughts of ending my life, I discover that you can do the True Self no harm and then begin to find the path to reinvention."

We suggest that you read the book, "Boundless", prior to the event.
Debbie at the Bookstore can obtain copies for you.

It will be held at:
St. James Episcopal Church
203 E. Glendale Street on Wednesday 10/1/2025 from 2:30 to 4:30 PM.
Please use the Guild Hall entrance.
