Attorney General Knudsen, Governor Gianforte encourage Montanans to learn the signs of human trafficking during Human Trafficking Prevention Month

Attorney General Austin Knudsen, along with Governor Greg Gianforte, today recognized Human Trafficking Prevention Month by reminding Montanans to learn the signs of human trafficking and report it if they see it to help stop the heinous crime.

Human trafficking is a form of modern-day slavery in which traffickers—often organized criminal enterprises—profit at the expense of adults or children compelled to perform labor or engage in commercial sex.

"I am incredibly proud of the efforts we've made to stop human trafficking in Montana over the last five years, but we're not done yet. As Attorney General, I will continue to do everything I can to end this heinous crime. I encourage every Montanan to join us in this fight – learn the signs and stay alert," Attorney General Knudsen said.

"Each year, we recognize January as Human Trafficking Prevention Month to raise awareness of this despicable, heartbreaking crime that affects every state in the nation," Governor Greg Gianforte said. "In Montana, we have incredible nonprofit and law enforcement partners that do their part to put an end to human trafficking and hold traffickers accountable for their heinous crimes."

"Under the leadership and direction of Attorney General Pam Bondi, and working together with our federal, state and local law enforcement partners, we are cracking down on criminals, especially the cartels and other transnational criminal organizations who commit these heinous sex and human trafficking crimes," U.S. Attorney Kurt Alme said. "Through the Homeland Security Task Force and Project Safe Childhood, we are better able to locate, apprehend, and prosecute these criminals as well as identify and rescue victims."

In 2025, Department of Justice agents worked 64 human trafficking-related cases in Montana and opened 21 investigations that have been or will be submitted for prosecution. Of those 21 cases, 11 were sex trafficking, six were labor trafficking, two were human smuggling, and two were illicit massage businesses.

The DCI Human Trafficking Unit conducted multiple victim response operations throughout the state in attempt to locate and identify victims of human trafficking. As a result, numerous individuals were contacted, recovered, and provided resources by the Unit. Several of these encounters have led to ongoing investigations. Some of the operations were made possible by House Bill 112, a law Attorney General Knudsen's office helped write and pass during the 2023 Legislative Session, which increased the penalties for sex traffickers and patrons of sex trafficking. It also provides prosecutors with more tools to prosecute sex traffickers and expands the definition of human trafficking and has helped intensify the crackdown on the sexual abuse of children and all victims.

This year, Attorney General Knudsen will again co-host the GRIT conference in Billings with anti-human trafficking organizations to bring professionals from across the Rocky Mountain region together to tackle rural challenges and discuss solutions to combat human trafficking and exploitation.

To stop human trafficking and raise awareness of the issue in Montana, Attorney General Knudsen has also increased human trafficking training for county attorneys, Montana Highway Patrol troopers, and cadets at the Montana Law Enforcement Academy. In 2024, he launched a curriculum to educate Montana students on the dangers of human trafficking, which features human trafficking survivors and DCI agents who are on the front lines combatting human trafficking.

Make sure you know the signs as potential indicators of sex trafficking may include:

- Young person that is very hesitant to engage in conversation. Eyes are always downcast, avoiding eye contact, especially with men. Poor physical state...tired, malnourished, or shows signs of physical abuse or torture.
- Seems to have trouble responding to what their name is or what location (city or even state) they are in. (Victims' names are often changed, as are their whereabouts. They typically do not stay in one location for long – at times for 24 hours or less).
- Wearing clothes that do not fit the climate or the situation such as short shorts or skirts, tank tops, and no jacket in the middle of winter.
- Lack of control over money, personal possessions like bags, IDs, or documents. May also be carrying very few possessions in a plastic bag.
- May be accompanied by a dominating person, or

- someone they seem fearful of. That controlling person may also be someone who does not seem to "fit," such as a much older individual, an individual of a different race, or with behavior seemingly inappropriate with the suspected victim.
- Young girl or boy hanging around outside a convenience store, truck stop, casino, or other location. May be approaching different vehicles or men they do not seem to know.

If you believe you witness human trafficking:

- If the situation is an emergency, call 911.
- Do not intervene if you see suspected trafficker(s). Remain at a safe distance or in your vehicle.
- In non-emergency situations, call or text 1-833-406-STOP (1-833-406-7867) OR reach and advocate via live chat at 406stop.com.
- When possible, take images with your cellular device of the suspected trafficker(s), victim(s), and vehicle license plate(s).

Gov. Gianforte also proclaimed January 2026 as Human Trafficking Awareness Month and January 11, 2026, as Human Trafficking Awareness Day in Montana.

UMW to Host Fourth Annual BrainFest Mathematical Modeling Competition

The University of Montana Western Department of Mathematics invites all interested high school students to participate in BrainFest, a mathematical modeling competition, on Friday, February 6, 2026, at the University of Montana Western campus. Participants will have the chance to win a $500 or $250 scholarship to UMW.

BrainFest offers participants an immersive, hands-on problem-solving experience that highlights the types of challenges Montana Western students and faculty work through in the classroom using mathematical modeling.

This year's BrainFest competition, titled Trilobite Invasion!, gives students the opportunity to explore how deep-water trilobites recolonize shallow-water habitats following extinction events. Participants will use a computer model to design their own trilobite species with the goal of creating the most successful invader.

Once designs are finalized, each trilobite model will be entered into a simulator, where it will compete against others to determine which species is best at invading shallow seas. The winner will be the student whose design proves to be the most effective invader.

Participants will be supported throughout the competition by Montana Western mathematics majors, with UMW mathematics faculty available to answer questions and provide guidance during the modeling process. This free event also includes lunch for all participants.

Students interested in the following topics are encouraged to participate:

- Mathematics and/or natural sciences
- Mathematical modeling and simulation
- Problem-solving

- Asking questions and designing projects to find answers
- Collaborating with peers, math major mentors, and faculty

"The UMW faculty are excited to offer BrainFest again this year. We have a lot of fun coming up with a new model for prospective students each year. It is very enjoyable to watch students learn about and model these species. We had a great success last year and hope to build on that this year and are excited to see which model wins," said Dr. Joseph Eason, Associate Professor of Mathematics and BrainFest organizer.

To register for the competition, visit <https://apply.umwestern.edu/register/brainfest>. Space is limited, so early registration is encouraged. For more information, please contact joseph.eason@umwestern.edu.

Bannack Commemorates 162nd Anniversary of Henry Plummer Hanging with Biannual Re-Enactment

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News
Saturday marked the 162nd anniversary of the capture and hanging of notorious sheriff-turned-outlaw Henry Plummer in Bannack State Park, an event commemorated with the community's biannual historical re-enactment.

The re-enactment was held under sunny skies with temperatures climbing into the high 30s — a notable departure from previous years when conditions are often near zero or well below. Despite the relatively mild weather, attendance was smaller than usual.

With fewer actors available, organizers made adjustments and improvised portions of the performance. Nevertheless, the event continued as planned, with members portraying the vigilantes and road agents who played key roles in one of Montana's most infamous frontier-era events.

Plummer, along with two men accused of being part of his gang — Buck Stinson and Ned Ray — was captured on January 10, 1864, by a group of vigilantes in Bannack. The men were accused of leading a band of road agents responsible for robberies and murders in Bannack and the nearby Alder Gulch mining communities.

That evening, the accused were marched to the gallows and hanged. Ironically, Plummer had constructed the same gallows in 1863 for the execution of convicted murderer Peter Horan during his tenure as sheriff.

Historical accounts note that Ned Ray was the first to be hanged, followed by Buck Stinson. Plummer was the last to face execution after requesting time to pray and asking for what he described as “a good drop.” According to records, he died quickly.

The biannual re-enactment serves as both a remembrance of Bannack’s turbulent past and an educational opportunity for visitors to learn more about Montana’s vigilante era and early territorial history.

Events like these continue to draw interest to Bannack State Park, preserving the stories — and controversies — that helped shape Montana’s frontier legacy.

UMW and MCH Host 2026 Colt Challenge & Sale

The annual Colt Challenge and Sale, hosted by the University of Montana Western and the Montana Center for Horsemanship, will take place March 27-28, 2026, at the Montana Center for Horsemanship in Dillon, Montana.

Students and colts compete in a series of events that demonstrate their wide range of abilities during the Colt Challenge, followed by a public preview and auction the next day. All sale proceeds are reinvested in the program to provide scholarships to Natural Horsemanship majors at the University of Montana Western.

The event will also feature the Alumni Horse Sale, offering past Colt Challenge students the opportunity to showcase their horsemanship skills and their post-graduation accomplishments. Four alumni horses will be available for purchase, giving buyers the opportunity to invest in horses with additional real-world experience.

Schedule of Events

Friday, March 27 Colt Challenge: 9:00 a.m.

Saturday, March 28 Preview: 9:30 a.m.

Lunch: 11:30 a.m. Sale: 1:00 p.m.

Each colt receives approximately 80 days of training from equine students in the Natural Horsemanship/Equine Studies Bachelor of Science degree program at Montana Western, under the guidance of Montana Center for Horsemanship instructors. The 2026 event will showcase 25 quality colts donated by ranches from across the region.

Throughout their training, the young horses are familiarized with a wide range of environments and scenarios, including working with cattle and ropes, loading and unloading from trailers, and other situations commonly encountered in ranch work and recreational riding. This process allows students and instructors to develop an in-depth understanding of each horse, which they share with prospective buyers.

Leading up to the event, horses and students will be featured on Facebook and Instagram with details about each colt's color, conformation, personality, and skills. More information about the 2026 Colt Challenge and Sale, including the sale catalog, will be available on the University of Montana Western website.

Those interested in attending the auction may participate in person, online, or by phone. Online bidders must pre-register at least one day prior to the sale by visiting bid.

northernlivestockvideo.com and selecting "Get Approved to Bid."
Approved bidders may participate online via desktop at www.
northernlivestockvideo.com or through the Northern Livestock
Auction mobile app on sale day.

To bid by phone, participants must pre-register by calling Northern Livestock Video Auction at 866-616-5035 prior to the sale to obtain a bid number. Phone bidding will be available on sale day by calling 406-245-0889.

The sale order will be posted on Friday, March 27, by 5:00 p.m. on the Montana Western Colt Challenge and Sale website and Facebook page.

Corporate sponsors for the 2026 Colt Challenge and Sale
include CHS Inc., New Generation Supplements, Rocky Mountain Supply, and Zinpro Performance Minerals, in partnership with the University of Montana Western and the Montana Center for HorsemanSHIP. Saturday's complimentary lunch is sponsored by Beaverhead Motors and Bryan and Marcia Mussard of Reminiscence
Angus. Stockman Bank is sponsoring the saddle for the Colt Challenge winner. The University of Montana Western thanks all sponsors for their continued support of the event and its students.

The Equine Studies Department at the University of Montana Western offers the nation's only Bachelor of Science degree in Natural HorsemanSHIP, with options in management, psychology, science, and instruction, and has been ranked among the "Best Equestrian Colleges" by ThoughtCo.com.

The Montana Center for HorsemanSHIP is the first and only equine center in the United States devoted exclusively to promoting natural horsemanSHIP. The center serves as the primary teaching facility for Montana Western's Natural HorsemanSHIP curriculum.

The MCH teaches the La Cense Method, developed by William Kriegel, owner of Haras de la Cense in France and co-founder of the Montana Center for HorsemanSHIP. The method blends traditional horsemanSHIP with a progressive, step-by-step training approach that works with a horse's natural behavior and instincts.

For more information about the Colt Challenge and Sale,
contact Head Natural HorsemanSHIP Instructor Eric Hoffmann at eric.hoffmann@umwestern.edu or 406-925-1499.
