Food Is Medicine: Asparagus

One of the first vegetables to appear each spring, asparagus is a perennial—meaning once planted it returns year after year with very little effort or upkeep making it a worthy garden investment. It's also famously known for something a little... peculiar: asparagus pee. After eating asparagus, some people notice a strong sulfur-like odor in their urine. If you've ever insisted, "That doesn't happen to me," you're not alone. This has actually been studied and research from 2016 involving nearly 7,000 participants found that about 58% of men and 61.5% of women couldn't smell the odor at all due to a genetic trait called anosmia—so yes, the smell is real, some noses just miss it (for those who can smell it, you know it's punchy). Odd trivia aside, asparagus has many health perks, but today we're following the trail, as you've probably guessed by now, to the kidneys—where urine is made. Asparagus acts as a natural diuretic, helping the body release excess fluids and salts through urination, supporting a healthy urinary tract while its high water content and alkaline minerals may help to dilute uric acid and reduce the risk of kidney stone formation. Antioxidants in asparagus also help calm inflammation and oxidative stress that can strain kidney tissue over time. Try sautéed asparagus with olive oil and garlic for a savory side, tossing chopped spears into an egg scramble, or blending it with leeks and celery into a bright, detoxifying spring soup.

Good health is built day by day, starting with real food.

BLM plans prescribed burns near Clark Canyon and Melrose

The Bureau of Land Management's Dillon Field Office plans to conduct prescribed burns on about 4,000 acres in the Clark Canyon and Melrose areas after recent moisture created favorable burning conditions.

The burns will reduce hazardous fuels, improve forest health and lower the risk of high-intensity wildfires in the future. They are carried out in conjunction with the U.S. Wildland Fire Service, U.S. Forest Service, and the Montana Department of Natural Resources and Conservation.

Officials plan to begin burning March 17, but the start date will depend on weather and fuel conditions.

Burning operations are expected to last several days. Smoke may be visible from Interstate 15 near the Melrose and Clark Canyon areas. Officials are coordinating with Montana's smoke management and air quality programs to help limit potential impacts.

"Our goal is to complete these important fuel reduction projects when safe conditions allow," said Jonathan Clark, a wildland firefighter with the Dillon Field Office.

Fire officials plan to burn six units totaling 4,254 acres:

Clark Canyon area

- East Fork 1 — 110 acres, about 2 miles east of Clark Canyon Reservoir
- East Fork 2 — 706 acres, about 2 miles east of Clark Canyon Reservoir
- Bell Face — 560 acres, about 3 miles south of Clark Canyon Reservoir

Melrose area

- River Corridor — 980 acres, about 5 miles northwest of Melrose
- Cherry/Trapper — 713 acres, about 5 miles east of Melrose
- Rock Cherry — 1,185 acres, about 6 miles southwest of Melrose

For more information about the planned prescribed burns, contact the BLM Dillon Field Office at 406-682-4082.

Mayor Klakken Special Council Meeting

By: MJ

It was refreshing to listen to a respectful council meeting. Nobody from the public was standing up and demeaning, ridiculing, being disrespectful and insulting the council and others. The ugliness was the council could not respond and the only wording being heard was one side of the story. We can only hope that with new leadership some of that back stabbing stops and people find a productive way to do the city's business.

Transparency means solution solving: Mayor gave a report to the council on an item that he was considering. Hiring an "administrative assistant."

Agenda item to be voted on: "Hire Mr. Walter Congon as City Attorney." Mr. Condon will attend the council meetings enabling the council to have legal advice at their meetings and will be paid under contract. Mayor Klakken spoke with Mr. Guza and he will continue with the law suits currently filed against city. MOTION: Council voted unanimously to hire Mr. Congdon.

Council person questioned about how the hiring of Mr. Congdon will affect the city budget. Mayor Klakken explained that Mr. Guza is paid $350± per hours and will not be spending as much time as city attorney, thus saving city money that will go toward Mr. Congdon's wage.

Note: Mayor explained the city does not pay insurance or PERS for him. The dollar amount is approximately $24,000± savings for city.

It appears that a city staffer went down with engineer and dug 5 holes in the city street in the Westside (Wendland) subdivision and will be giving a final report to the mayor.

Public speakers. A public member disagreed that the administrative administrator was discussed legally. Mr. Dave Juliano brought up the pothole issue Dillon has. He noted that he had bought and applied material to fill potholes around his resident. He noted there were nine (9) foundations he knew of that have grant money available to help fix potholes. He gave the list to the city and asked if Dillon applied for any grants. Answer was NO. Question: WHY
