Educators Airlift Offers Unique Perspective on Montana Youth Challenge Academy

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

The steady thump of helicopter blades echoed across Dillon on Wednesday, March 25, as the Montana Youth Challenge Academy teamed up with the Montana National Guard's 189th General Support Aviation Battalion for its semiannual statewide Educators Airlift.

For longtime residents, the sight—and sound—of helicopters circling above town is a familiar one. Twice a year, educators from across Montana are flown into Dillon for a day-long experience designed to showcase the impact and opportunities offered through the Montana Youth Challenge Academy, particularly for at-risk youth.

This year, Southwestern Montana News joined the event firsthand.

The day began on the ground, with participants gathering at the local stadium, watching the sky and waiting for the aircraft to return from fueling. When the helicopters finally approached, their arrival was unmistakable—cutting across the valley skyline before settling in with precision.

After a brief but thorough safety briefing, it was time to board.

Within moments, the doors were secured,and the helicopter lifted off the ground.

From the air, Dillon and the surrounding Beaverhead Valley took on a different character—familiar landmarks reduced to patterns of fields, roads, and waterways.

The flight path carried passengers south along Interstate 15 toward Clark Canyon Dam, offering sweeping views of the landscape before circling back toward town and the University of Montana Western campus.

For many on board, it was more than just a scenic flight. The experience mirrored what cadets in the program get to take part in—an opportunity that blends education, discipline, and exposure to new possibilities.

While the helicopter ride is a highlight, the Educators Airlift serves a broader purpose. It connects teachers directly with the mission of the Montana Youth Challenge Academy, giving them insight into how the program supports students who may be struggling in traditional school settings.

It also provides cadets with a rare and memorable experience, reinforcing confidence and opening doors to new perspectives—both literally and figuratively.

Southwestern Montana News captured video from the flight along with a photo gallery, offering readers a glimpse of the experience from above.

Commerce Allocates Tribal Tourism Grants $100,000 in funding to develop, expand and strengthen Montana's tribal economies

The Montana Department of Commerce announced today that two Montana tribal governments will share $100,000 of grant funding to develop, expand and strengthen local tribal tourism assets and economies. The grant funding is provided through Commerce's Tribal Tourism Grant Program.

"Commerce's Tribal Tourism Grants support the development and improvement of shovel-ready tourism industry tribal projects such as niche product development, visitor facilities and venue upgrades and construction," said Commerce Director Marta Bertoglio.

Tribes that will receive TTG funding:

- Blackfeet Nation will receive $50,000 for repairs and upgrades to tribally owned campgrounds in multiple locations.
- Fort Belknap Indian Community will receive $50,000 for repairs, mobility improvements and upgrades to the Milk River Indian Days arbor site in Fort Belknap Agency.

In 2024, the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes received $50,000 in TTG funding for critical repairs and improvements to The Bison on Flathead Lake vacation rental property.

CSKT Planning Director Janet Camel said, "The Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes' Economic Development Office truly appreciates the funding and administrative support provided by Montana's Tribal Tourism Grant. This funding allowed us to make critical repairs at our vacation rental property on Flathead Lake, including a new roof, windows, heater and stairway that provides easier access to the shore. Commerce's Tribal Tourism staff were readily available to assist us throughout the project."

The TTG Program operates on a reimbursement system with a 50% tribal matching requirement. Eligible projects must be shovel-ready and demonstrate a long-lasting investment on the part of the State and the Tribe. For more information, visit commerce.mt.gov.

Outdoor Association Special Meeting

The Beaverhead Outdoors Association will be holding a special meeting on March 30th, 6:00 PM at the Beaverhead County search and rescue building. Warren Hansen, with the Montana Fish, Wildlife and Parks dept. will be discussing the closure that they put in place in the East Fork of Blacktail game management area, from Swamp Creek to the top of Rob/ Ledford Creek. A 3 mile stretch of road that was closed from October 15th to May 1 5th that required you to go around 26 miles to get to the same area in question during hunting season. This road goes around private ground. It's closed normally, right after hunting season to the 15th of May, which is no problem. But during hunting season, it is a problem! We would like to see all personnel that are interested in keeping this open during hunting season please show up to the meeting to voice their opinion.

Thank you,
Gene Loder, Pres. B.O.A

Izzi Simonsen and Women's Resource Safe Childhoods: Understanding the Impact of Domestic Violence on Children

Saturday, March 28 at 11 a.m. at Dillon Public Library:

In this workshop, parents, caregivers, and community members will learn about domestic violence and how it affects children emotionally, behaviorally, and developmentally. Participants will explore common child reactions and practice practical strategies to support both children and themselves in creating safe, nurturing environments.

Izzi Simonsen is the Programs Manager at the Women's Resource Center, where she has worked since February 2020 after many years of volunteering with the organization. She supports survivors of domestic and sexual violence and their families, witnessing firsthand how domestic violence impacts children. Izzi is dedicated to creating safe, trauma-informed environments where children and families can heal and thrive. She holds bachelor's degrees in Psychology and Interdisciplinary Social Sciences, a Victim Advocacy Certificate from Montana State University Billings, and is currently enrolled in a graduate program at the University of Montana. As a mother, she brings both professional expertise and personal insight to her work supporting children and families.

UMW Alumna to Share Beaverhead County Survey Findings

University of Montana Western alumna Dr. Beth Bennett, Assistant Professor of Sociology at Idaho State University, and Dr. Jessica Schad, Professor of Sociology at Utah State University, will present the results of Dr. Bennett's 2024 Beaverhead County Community Survey on April 20 at 6:30 p.m. in the STC Great Room.

During the summer of 2024, Dr. Bennett and Dr. Schad distributed a survey regarding attitudes and perceptions around community and land ownership change in Beaverhead County.

The results point to the strong attachment residents have to their community. Seventy-one percent of respondents stated that they "very much" plan to remain in Beaverhead County, while 66% indicated concern for community change, noting that more and new people moving to Beaverhead County are changing the community.

The greatest areas of concern for respondents are the loss of agricultural land to housing developments and very wealthy individuals purchasing land in Beaverhead County.

Overall, residents supported land being used for agricultural production, to maintain open space, recreation, and wildlife habitat, but were uncertain of the role that landowners play in ensuring land is used for those purposes.

During the April 20 event, they will share detailed results of the survey and hope the community will join to share their thoughts on the results.

The event is free and open to the public.

To learn more about the project, visit https://artsci.usu.edu/canri/projects/concentrated-ownership or contact Dr. Beth Bennett at benneliz@isu.edu.
