Ruth Joan Keyes, 84, of Wisdom, Montana

August 6, 1942 – September 11, 2026

Ruth Joan Keyes, 84, died September 11, in Montana, a place she called home for all of her life.

Ruth was born August 6, 1942, in Anaconda, Montana, to Edgar "Nick" and Ruth Kiefer. She grew up in Anaconda and attended college in Great Falls, where she prepared for a career in teaching. She taught for several years before she and her husband, Dwane D. Keyes, began the life together that would take them from Anaconda and Opportunity to the Big Hole Valley — the place

Ruth came to love more than anywhere else.

Ruth and Dwane were married July 2, 1966, in Anaconda and celebrated 60 years of marriage this summer.

Although Ruth spent only a few years as a full-time classroom teacher, she never really stopped teaching. After moving to the Big Hole, she substitute taught at Wisdom School whenever she was needed. Over the years, countless children came to know her simply as "Mom." Ruth and Dwane's door was always open, and it was not unusual to find their home filled with kids.

Ruth also worked for many years as a Postmaster Relief at the Wisdom Post Office, putting away what she earned toward the retirement she and Dwane hoped to spend in the Big Hole.

When Dwane retired from ranching, they made their home on a small piece of Big Hole ground overlooking the country they loved. Ruth often said she couldn't imagine living in a better place. She created enormous gardens there, growing vegetables and spectacular flowers with equal enthusiasm.

Her faith was an important part of her life. She loved her family, her animals and her home fiercely. She could also be stubborn, ornery and formidable, qualities her family will readily admit have been passed down through the generations. She taught by example: work hard, tell the truth, be accountable, be kind, stand up for what is right, and be yourself.

As her daughters grew up and grandchildren came along, "Mom" became "Granny," but the open-door policy never changed. She was Granny not only to her own grandchildren, but to their friends as well. After Dwane's retirement, the ranch house full of kids simply became a basement full of sleeping teenagers and young adults.

She taught them to read, sew, bake and cook — and that a bed should be made every morning. More importantly, she taught generations of young people what it felt like to have a place where they were always welcome and someone who would always care.

Ruth is survived by her husband of 60 years, Dwane D. Keyes; her daughters, Janeen Spehar, Michele Keyes, who shared their Big Hole home and was a constant source of care, strength and companionship to Ruth and Dwane, and Simone Keyes Wind and her husband, Al — always "her boy" to Ruth; her grandchildren, Michael Vidrich and Lexi Salminen, and Shawnee Ives and her husband, Matt; and her great-grandson, Parker.

Ruth was eagerly awaiting Parker's arrival and was absolutely delighted at the prospect of finally becoming a great-grandmother.

Although she died just days before he was born, Parker will grow up knowing the woman who was so excited to become his Granny, through the stories of the generations of people who loved her.

Ruth was preceded in death by her parents, Edgar "Nick" and Ruth Kiefer; her brother, Frances Nick "Nicky" Kiefer; and her son-in-law, Karry Spehar.

And so we'll leave the last word to Ruth, the way she would have said it herself: See ya, love ya, bye.

Diane Marie Schindler

Diane Marie Schindler passed away on Monday, September 14, 2026, at her home in Butte.

She was born on July 5, 1948, in Dickinson, North Dakota, to Stephen and Leona (Doyle) Gall. Diane was raised in Butte and Twin Bridges, attending St. Lawrence School in Walkerville and graduating from Twin Bridges High School. She also attended Montana State College in Bozeman.

Diane worked at Metals Bank in Butte and First National Bank of Dillon, where she met the love of her life, Francis J. Schindler. They were married in Dillon in 1970. Diane and Francis spent the next 30 years ranching and raising their family in the Big Hole Valley. After retiring, they enjoyed many adventures snow birding to Arizona.

Diane's greatest joy was her family. She loved spending time with her grandchildren and developing unique and special bonds with them. She sent thousands of birthday, anniversary, and special-event cards, rarely missing an occasion that was important to someone she loved.

Diane will be remembered for her fierce loyalty, her deep love of family and friends, her generous spirit, and her appreciation for nature.

Diane is survived by her husband of 56 years, Francis Schindler; her son, Joseph Schindler; her daughters, Carrie Taylor and Harmony Schindler; and her grandchildren, Jordynn, Justine (Orion), Charlisa, Connor, Patrick, and Cassandra.

She is also survived by her brothers and sisters, Tom (Theresa) Gall, Ginny (Kerry) Koenig, Ken (Mark) Gall and Nancy (Mel) Moe; her sister-in-law, Barbara Van Cleve; her aunt, Ann Nelson; and many nieces, nephews, cousins, and close friends.

Funeral Mass were celebrated Thursday morning at St. Ann Catholic Church, with entombment at Holy Cross Cemetery.

Memorials in memory of Diane may be made to the Bozeman Health Cancer Center Foundation, 915 Highland Blvd., Bozeman, MT 59715, or to Shriners Hospitals for Children.

Hoolihan Clayton signing books at The Bookstore

The Bookstore will be hosting J. Hoolihan Clayton on Saturday, September 19th from 2:00 PM -4:00 PM.

Clayton a First Nations Plains Cree was adopted by a white family and raised on a cattle ranch in Wyoming, she has lived a diverse and authentic life in the American West as a cowboy and wildland firefighter. With a degree from the University of Montana, she taught history and Native American studies for several years. J. Hoolihan now works full time as an author and research consultant. She will do a reading from her newest book: Discretion and Folly:

A Novel of Factual History Concerning Murder, Metis,

Soldiers and Sitting Bull at aprx 2:30. She will be signing all 5 books in the Discretion series.

Beginning just after the Battle of the Little Big Horn, the "Discretion" series delves into underexposed and accurate history of the American West, founded in aggressive 19th century political policies inspired by manifest destiny and intended to destroy Native American cultures and people.

Charles Wolfe Collins, a man of integrity, robust convictions and audacity, is an Irish immigrant with a background in the secret service during the Civil War and various covert investigations for powerful men in Washington D.C. Sent upon dangerous commissions by men such as President Grant, Collins finds himself forging bonds of friendship with Native people and stumbling upon truths he mightnot want to know. More fact than fiction, the series incorporates meticulously researched historical figures,documents and incidents and delivers poignant historical depictions of the frequent brutality and calamitous racism that was endemic to the Old West.

The Discretion Series is an accumulation of engaging stories intended to challenge pre-existing cultural and historical generalizations, especially regarding American Indian peoples. While intended to educate as well as entertain, these novels are eminently provocative, comprehensively researched and woven into the fabric of the 19th century West, populated by authentic historical figures, compelling events and vivid landscapes.

The reader becomes immersed in the language, daily existence and societal perspectives of the waning days of the American West.

The first two books in J. Hoolihan's Discretion Series were finalists in the High Plains Book Awards for 2022 & 2023. The series was a finalist in the Next Generation Indie Book Awards in 2024 & 2025 and the third book in the series won a New Mexico/Arizona Book Award in 2024. The fourth book, Discretion is Valor, won the Historical Society of New Mexico's Ralph Emerson Twitchell Award (for an outstanding publication or significant contribution by individuals or organizations to the creative arts, as related to New Mexico history) in 2025 and was a finalist in the New Mexico Book Awards in 2025. Discretion and Folly is the newest addition to the series. Call 406-683-6807 if you have any questions or would like to reserve copies of the books.

Grizzly bear euthanized near Augusta in response to livestock depredation

A grizzly bear was euthanized Tuesday evening southwest of Augusta. The bear was euthanized in response to livestock depredation.

The bear was feeding on a cow carcass on state land about three miles away from where an archery hunter was attacked along Elk Creek near Haystack Butte Monday morning. The hunter sustained significant but fortunately not life-threatening injuries. The attack was determined to be a surprise defensive encounter given the fed-upon carcass of another domestic cow about 150 yards away.

Upland Game Bird Forecasts

New this year, Montana upland game bird hunters have a 10-day head start on nonresident hunters. As a result of Senate Bill 514, passed during the 2025 legislative session, nonresident upland game bird hunters using private lands enrolled in FWP hunting access programs -- including block management -- or hunting on public lands may not begin hunting until 10 days later than resident upland bird hunters for all upland species except mountain grouse (blue, spruce [Franklin] and ruffed grouse).

Southwest Montana (Region 3): Wildlife biologists in Region 3 will be collecting wings from hunter-harvested grouse during the fall season to assess young-of-the-year composition.

Sage-grouse lek counts in the 18 monitored leks in southwestern Montana showed improved numbers for the second spring in a row. Though this did not apply to all leks and the documented growth follows approximately 10 years of overall declines. The proportion of juveniles to adults documented from hunter donated wings have indicated poor juvenile recruitment in recent years. However, in 2024 and 2025 this improved somewhat, particularly east of I-15. This recruitment and a mild winter may have improved population performance.

Information on mountain grouse is more limited. However, Region 3 has seen a similar pattern in juvenile-to-adult ratios as sage-grouse. Only a handful of mountain grouse surveys are conducted in spring, but results from this past spring were encouraging. In recent years recruitment appeared poor in mountain grouse but improved in the past two seasons. The poor snow year may have reduced moisture with consequences for forage and cover this summer. However, this may be counteracted by timely summer rainfall.
