Health Minute

Lemon Balm:

Lemon balm is part of the mint family, and it certainly grows like mint, with a strong desire to spread! Perhaps best known for its mood-lifting powers, lemon balm has been shown in research to influence key neurotransmitters in the brain. It helps raise levels of GABA, which is associated with lower stress and anxiety, and may also support serotonin activity, which boosts mood and can help ease feelings of depression. Studies also show improvements in general cognition (thinking) and memory.

Beyond the brain, lemon balm aids digestion and even has antiviral properties; applied topically (balm/poultice) it has been shown to help speed the healing of cold sores.

Lastly, lemon balm makes a lovely bedtime ritual for better sleep. Simply steep a spoonful of leaves in a mug of hot water for 5-10 minutes and sip it 30 minutes to an hour before bed to cue your body into a more peaceful state.

If you grow your own, now is the time to harvest and dry your lemon balm. If not, come on down to the Mighty Oak to pick up a bag of our organically grown lemon balm wellness tea. Soothing the mind and body, one sip at a time!

The Ring Tones bell choir is looking for new members for the coming season!

Our first rehearsal will be Saturday, October 3, at 9 a.m. at First Presbyterian Church. We rehearse every Saturday and perform at the church on the final Sunday of each month. Ring Tones also takes part in community events such as the annual Community Sing.

Members are welcome to take months off when work, travel, school, or other commitments get in the way. We simply ask that when you join us for a month, you commit to that month's rehearsals and performance so the rest of the choir can count on you.

Ringers from middle school age through adult are welcome, and so are all skill levels. Being able to read music is helpful, but it isn't required. We have ways to help people participate even without that experience. That's how Matthew began!

More than anything, Ring Tones is about the joy of making a unique kind of music together. If you're enthusiastic, reliable, and interested in giving handbells a try, we'd love to have you join us.

Interested? Contact Matthew Yetter at 925-3112 or neccsis@msn.com.

These nutritious meals bring folks together on a weekly basis, to share both good food and good company.

We again welcome shoppers to our thrift store, open Mondays 10 a.m.-4 p.m.

Talk of the Town: Fick Faculty Speaker Series Featuring Dr. John R. Henris

The University of Montana Western is pleased to announce the first event of this year's Talk of the Town Faculty Speaker Series, which celebrates faculty innovation in teaching, research, and scholarship. Dr. John R. Henris will present "Fisheries and Progressive Era Conservation in Dillon and Southwest Montana, 1898-1920" on Tuesday, November 4, from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at Angler Village, located at 335 S. Atlantic Street in Dillon.

Each semester, one faculty member is recognized with an honorific title and award and shares their work through a public presentation in Dillon. The series highlights the many ways UMW faculty enrich student learning and the broader community while celebrating excellence and strengthening the connection between the University and the Dillon community.

Henris's presentation will focus on the seasonal summer "fish trains" operated by the Oregon Short Line (Union Pacific) between Butte and Dillon, and sometimes Armstead, from 1898 to 1920. More broadly, he will explore how Dillon and Beaverhead County residents actively participated in the development of recreational fisheries in Montana during the Progressive Era.

The presentation will also examine how local residents developed their own perspectives on emerging conservation policies in the Intermountain West. At times, those perspectives complemented the interests of neighboring Butte and the Anaconda Mining Company, while at other times they differed considerably.

At Montana Western, Henris researches and teaches courses in the history of the U.S. West, environmental history, and public history. He sees the presentation as an opportunity to demonstrate the value of connecting local history to broader regional and national events.

"Public History is where I think this talk most overlaps with my work as a faculty member at UMW, as I want my students to build similar connections in their own communities," said Henris.

That approach is also reflected in Henris's classroom. During Block 1 of the fall semester, students in his History of Fly-Fishing course worked collectively on a presentation examining fisheries development in the Birch Creek watershed from 1880 to 1940.

"Birch Creek holds significance for both UMW and the Dillon community," Henris said. "Their presentation elucidated how local communities in Beaverhead County negotiated historical fisheries development against ongoing conflicts with water rights, irrigation, forest grazing, precious metal mining, and New Deal legislation, which reflected larger national discussions across the Intermountain West during the same period."

Henris hopes students carry the research practices developed through projects like this into their future classrooms and communities. He also hopes the public will see local history as more than a record of events that happened in the past.

"I hope both students and the community take away the sense that all history is local and that people in places like Dillon historically made decisions and helped shape policy with very real regional and national implications," Henris said.

For Henris, being selected as a Fick Faculty Speaker provides an opportunity to bring that work directly to the community.

"For me, it is a great opportunity to make connections with the local Dillon community and to present work on historical topics that I am both genuinely interested in and that I think will appeal to the public as well," Henris said.

The Fick Faculty Speaker Series is more than an honor — it is a bridge between campus and community. By recognizing faculty contributions, the series fosters a culture of collaboration, demonstrates UMW's commitment to student success, and upholds the core values upon which our institution was founded.

This event is free and open to the public. We hope you will join us in celebrating and connecting UMW faculty with the community.

Volunteers needed for Oct. 3 cave maintenance at Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park

Staff at Lewis & Clark Caverns State Park are seeking volunteers to help with a post-season cleaning of the caverns. The event will be Saturday, Oct. 3, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Volunteers will meet at the Upper Visitor Center for a brief orientation before the work begins.

Volunteers in this event will get the chance to see the park up close as they work to reduce some of the impacts from visitors in the cave and on outdoor trails. This includes removing lint and dust from the cave formations, steps and pathways, along with cleaning naturally growing algae. Trail work will involve pulling noxious weeds and repairing rutted trails.

Those interested in volunteering are asked to RSVP by sending an email to Lewis&ClarkCavernsStatePark@mt.gov by Friday, Oct. 2.

Volunteers should bring a hat, long-sleeved shirt, long pants, water, sunscreen, gardening gloves and a closed-toed shoes with good traction. Park staff will provide additional materials, as well as snacks and water. If you plan to work in the cave, please use clothing and equipment that has not been worn in another cave or mine to help prevent the spread of white-nose syndrome in bats.

For more information about the park, click here or call 406-287-3541.

Madisyn Frazier Earns Frontier Conference
 Volleyball Defender of the Week

Montana Western's Madisyn Frazier picked up Erck Hotels / Frontier Conference Women's Volleyball Defender of the Week honors, the league office announced Monday.

The award marks the first conference weekly honor of Frazier's career and makes her the first Bulldog to earn a Frontier Conference weekly award this season.

Frazier anchored Western's defensive efforts with 7.71 digs per set over seven sets played (54 total digs).

The senior posted 21 digs (7.0 per set) in the Bulldogs' sweep over MSU-Northern while adding four assists and an ace.

The Kalispell, native followed that with a career-high 33 digs (8.25 digs per set) as Western pushed Providence to four sets. She led the game in digs and tallied four assists and an ace.

She also recorded a .976 reception percentage on the weekend.

Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission rejects 24-hour trap checks, bear spray mandate

Two citizen petitions, one that would require 24-hour trap checks on public land and another that would require hunters, trappers and guides to carry bear spray in grizzly habitat, failed unanimously to advance in a process that could eventually have made them Montana law.

Under the Montana Administrative Procedure Act (MAPA), an interested party may petition an agency to request the establishment, amendment or repeal of an administrative rule. The petitions were considered during Thursday's special Montana Fish and Wildlife Commission meeting, which was held virtually.

A third agenda item that authorizes FWP staff to prepare a draft predator management policy for the commission's consideration passed unanimously.

Most of the nearly five-hour meeting focused on public comment.

The trap-check petition was submitted by Footloose Montana and the Gallatin Wildlife Association.

The mandatory bear spray petition was submitted by Patty Ames, President of the Flathead-Lolo-Bitterroot Citizen Task Force on behalf of approximately 65 NGOs and individuals.

The three items drew written and online public comments, with trap check requirements receiving more than 600 comments, bear spray mandate receiving more than 300 comments and the predator management policy receiving about 100 comments.

Aerial Herbicide Treatments Set to Begin as BLM Battles Invasive Weeds Near Dillon

The BLM Dillon Field Office has contracted to conduct aerial herbicide treatments this fall on fuels treatment units within the field office. The goal is to control noxious and invasive plant species that pose a threat to native vegetation. This effort will begin Sept. 29 and continue for several weeks.

Treatment Areas Include:

Virginia City area / Alder Gulch

East Pioneers units west of Melrose

Various units south of Dillon, including Clark Canyon and Limekiln Canyon

Operations are scheduled to commence on Sept. 29 on units south of Dillon then moving northward toward the Virginia City area. Low-flying aircraft will apply herbicide across these strategic zones to reduce invasive species, and support ongoing restoration efforts.

What to Expect:

Aircraft in operation during daylight hours over designated treatment areas

Temporary treatment indicators—signage and flagging—will be visible near affected roads

Public land use in treatment zones remains open, but visitors should exercise caution, maintain a safe distance, and avoid contact with sprayed areas

Tools such as low-flying aircraft and approved herbicides ensure effective coverage and minimal disturbance to the landscape. These herbicides, applied in late growing season, target invasive species while native vegetation remains largely dormant and unaffected.

Protecting natural ecosystems by reducing competition from invasive species allows native grasses, forbs, and shrubs to recover from disturbance associated with fuels treatments. These treatments support healthy wildlife habitat, contributing to more sustainable rangelands. The BLM manages approximately 245 million acres of public lands across the western United States, including Montana, to maintain the health, diversity, and productivity of these landscapes for current and future generations.

For any questions or concerns please contact BLM Dillon Field Office at 406-683-8000
