Beaverhead County Resident Files Lawsuit Challenging Surveillance Cameras at County Dump Sites Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News

A Lima resident has filed a lawsuit in Montana's Fifth Judicial District Court challenging the use of surveillance cameras at Beaverhead County-operated waste transfer stations, alleging the cameras violate privacy protections under the Montana Constitution.

Chris Brozell of Lima filed the complaint on September 24, 2026, naming Beaverhead County, County Commissioners Tom Rice and Mike McGinley, and Beaverhead County Sheriff David Wendt as defendants.

The lawsuit, filed under Case No. DR-1-2026-15002, seeks the removal of surveillance cameras from county-operated waste transfer stations, monetary damages and a formal apology from the defendants.

Lawsuit Raises Constitutional Privacy Concerns In the complaint, Brozell argues that surveillance cameras installed at county-operated waste transfer stations violate the privacy rights of Montana residents.

The filing cites Article II, Section 10 of the Montana Constitution, which states:

"The right of individual privacy is essential to the well-being of a free society and shall not be infringed without the showing of a compelling state interest."

Brozell alleges that Beaverhead County has installed surveillance cameras at most county-operated satellite dump stations, with some installations dating back to approximately 2018.

The complaint questions whether the county has demonstrated a compelling public interest justifying the surveillance.

Brozell also alleges that the public has not been offered an adequate explanation of why the cameras are necessary.

These assertions are allegations made by the plaintiff and have not been established as findings by the court.

Plaintiff Claims Surveillance Causes Harm

In the lawsuit, Brozell argues that constitutional privacy protections should not be surrendered without sufficient justification.

The complaint alleges that the cameras have caused continuing harm to residents and contends that government institutions have a responsibility to protect citizens' constitutional rights.

The filing does not provide specific examples of individuals being monitored or describe particular incidents involving the use of camera footage.

Lawsuit Seeks Removal of Cameras and Monetary Damages
Brozell is requesting three forms of relief from the court.

1. Removal of surveillance cameras: Brozell asks the court to declare the surveillance unlawful under the Montana Constitution and order the immediate removal of surveillance devices from county-operated waste transfer stations.

2. Monetary damages: The lawsuit requests damages calculated using the costs of the cameras, software, installation, maintenance and associated data storage and transfer fees dating back to installation. Brozell proposes doubling that amount and directing the money to watchdog organizations, including Amnesty International or the Electronic Frontier Foundation.

3. Formal apology: Brozell requests a formal apology to the people of Montana from the defendants named in the lawsuit.

The filing also includes a demand for a jury trial.

No specific dollar amount is identified in the complaint.
County Officials Named in Lawsuit

The lawsuit names Beaverhead County, Commissioners Tom Rice and Mike McGinley, and Sheriff David Wendt as defendants.

The documents provided do not include responses from the county, commissioners or sheriff regarding the allegations.

They also do not establish whether the defendants have been served, whether any motions have been filed or whether the court has scheduled a hearing.

The filing itself does not establish that the cameras are unlawful. That question would be subject to legal proceedings and any rulings issued by the court.

Case Filed in Beaverhead County District Court

The complaint was filed September 24, 2026, in Montana's Fifth Judicial District Court in Beaverhead County, with District Judge Luke Berger identified in the court heading.

Brozell is listed as representing himself, also known as appearing pro se.

The case raises questions about the balance between government-operated surveillance systems and constitutional privacy protections.

Southwestern Montana News will continue following the case as it proceeds through the court system.

Editor's Note: This article is based on the complaint and accompanying documents provided to Southwestern Montana News. The allegations represent the plaintiff's position and have not been established as facts by the court. No response from the defendants was included in the supplied documents.

Letter to the Editor

Just Vote NO!

In the upcoming general election, Montana voters will see 3 Constitutional Initiatives (CIs) on the ballot. They are CI- 194, CI-132 and CI-133. Simply put, a CI is an attempt to change our state Constitution by a simple majority of voters and not by using the legislative process of typical constitutional changes. I am urging voters to vote NO on all three of these. All three of these are funded and supported by out-of-state groups that have not been able to win legislatively and pass laws through the normal process used by government. When their ideas go through the legislative process and have vigorous debate they usually lose because the people can be more informed and see these ideas for what they really are. By using the CI process, they can pay signature gatherers to tell a voter how great the idea is in a minute of conversation. Once it's on the ballot you get a short paragraph written by the supporters to tell you how great the idea is. There is no open debate, no long process to vet the idea to the public. Most voters read the language on the ballot and make their decision.

CI-194 is brought to you by the out of state group, The Transparent Ballot Initiative, who believes they can go around the US Supreme Court and limit participation by businesses and organizations in the political process. Contrary to what the supporters repeatedly say, it does NOT eliminate Dark Money in politics. It silences Montanan's ability to participate in the legislative process while still allowing out-of-state entities to spend money in our state to try and sway our votes.

CI-132 is very simple and wants to add one line in our state constitution that says Judicial elections shall remain nonpartisan. The problem with this is that once it's in the constitution it will be nearly impossible to change in the future. Our judicial races are already nonpartisan. We know that many judges are using their position on the bench to advance their agendas. Many Montanans are frustrated with what we see coming out of the courts in their rulings and decisions. The supporters of this proposal know that if voters see a party next to a judge's name it will influence their votes. The supporters of this initiative know that the anonymity of judges is their only defense to maintain that liberal bias in our judicial system, thus basically being the gatekeepers of Montana law.

The last initiative is CI- 133, which seeks to change the CI process itself. This would give more advantages to out-of-state groups that are well funded to work through the process of bringing initiatives to the people while making it harder for smaller groups to do the same. It also seeks to remove the government from some of the checks and balances on these initiatives and signatures gathered during the process. This is unnecessary and not beneficial to the people of Montana.

A very simple search on the out-of-state supporters of these three CI's shows that they are funded by left wing groups with deep pockets who have targeted Montana. They are using our constitutional referendum process to try and pass things that they have been unsuccessful at passing through the legislators (because their ideals and philosophies have been soundly rejected by the voters). In my opinion, the easiest way to make your decision on how to vote is to look at where the yards signs are in support of the CI's. Almost every yard with a sign supporting these also has a sign for a liberal candidate too. That alone should show you where the support for these ideas comes from. It should make your decision easy if you believe in a limited and conservative government.

State Auditor James Brown Praises CMS for Returning $7 Million in Obamacare Overcharges to More Than 14,000 Montanans

State Auditor James Brown praises the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) for returning more than $7 million in Affordable Care Act (ACA), otherwise known as Obamacare, overcharges to more than 14,000 Montanans as part of the Trump Administration's broader efforts to combat waste, fraud, and abuse in government programs.

The previous administration overcharged Americans via "user fees" on the ACA plan exchange. The fees were passed on to consumers through health insurance premiums. The surplus funds were not used to benefit those paying the increased costs.

Nearly a million Americans in the 30 states that utilize the federal ACA exchange, including those in Montana, will receive $500 refund checks if they did already not receive premium assistance. CMS will begin sending refund checks to eligible Americans this month.

CMS identified 14,093 Montanans who will receive the checks, totaling $7,046,500 in refunds.

"Government, at every level, must ensure that it's not needlessly taking more money from taxpayers than it needs to operate," Auditor Brown said. "I'm glad to see CMS under the Trump Administration taking steps to identify past overcharges and return money to American families. This action is in keeping with the pledge I have made to keep Montana affordable for families."

As Montana's chief insurance regulator, Auditor Brown has helped to stop tens of millions of dollars in unsupported payouts by insurers impacted by an Obamacare fraud scheme that targeted and exploited Montana's native communities. Since July of 2025, Auditor Brown has also saved Montanans nearly $19 million by denying unjustified insurance rate increases.

Montanans who have questions about the ACA marketplace or their health insurance coverage can contact the Auditor's office at 406-444-2040 or find information online at the agency's website, csimt.gov.

Early Season Snowstorm Causes Multiple Slide-Offs on I-15; FedEx Truck Crashes Near Mile Marker 38

Jeremy Crawford, Southwestern Montana News
 An early-season snowstorm that moved through Southwest Montana on Sunday has left drivers dealing with icy roads and hazardous travel conditions Monday morning, with multiple vehicles reportedly sliding off Interstate 15.

The storm brought snow throughout Sunday and continued into the night, leaving roads frozen and slick as motorists headed out Monday morning.

One of the reported crashes involved a FedEx truck traveling southbound on I-15 near mile marker 38.

FedEx Truck Slides Off Interstate

According to initial reports, the FedEx driver was traveling southbound when the truck encountered an icy patch while crossing a bridge.

The driver reportedly lost control of the vehicle, causing it to slide off the roadway and into the interstate divider.

First responders arrived at the scene and began working to recover the truck from the ditch.

As of the latest reports, no injuries have been reported in connection with the FedEx crash.

The extent of damage to the vehicle has not yet been confirmed.

Multiple Slide-Offs Reported Along I-15

The FedEx crash is among several reported slide-offs along Interstate 15 Monday morning as drivers encounter icy and snow-covered roadways.

Sunday's storm continued into the overnight hours, creating conditions where bridges, overpasses and shaded sections of highway can become especially slippery.
