Montana Western Celebrates Homecoming October 12-17 with "Defend the Frontier" Theme

The University of Montana Western will celebrate Homecoming October 12-17, 2026, with a week of activities embracing the theme "Defend the Frontier." Campus celebrations will culminate Saturday, October 17, when the Bulldogs face the College of Idaho at 1:00 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

Students, faculty, and staff will show their Bulldog pride throughout the week with office decorating, student activities, a dodgeball tournament, and the Bulldog Spirit Competition. Alumni, friends, and community members are encouraged to cheer on Montana Western at Saturday's Homecoming football game.

Homecoming begins Monday, October 12, with sidewalk chalk painting at 3:30 p.m. on Legacy Plaza, hosted by the Associated Students of the University of Montana Western (ASUMW). Bulldog Life will host Build-a-Dawg on Tuesday, October 13, at 3:30 p.m. in the Bulldog Lounge, with supplies provided.

Wednesday's events include a Wellness Fair hosted by PATH at 10:00 a.m. in Keltz Arena and the Bulldog Battle dodgeball preliminaries at 7:00 p.m. in the BARC upstairs gym. The tournament is open to students, faculty, staff, and clubs, with registration closing at 6:00 p.m. that day. Individuals may register and be placed on a team.

Thursday, October 15, is College Colors Day. The campus community is encouraged to wear Montana Western colors before gathering for a pep rally at 7:00 p.m. in Beier Auditorium. Sponsored by ASUMW, the rally will feature competitions, school cheers, Bulldog Spirit voting, and free rally towels. A Homecoming bonfire with Engine 18 will follow at 8:00 p.m. at Bulldog Stadium.

On Thursday and Friday from 10:30 a.m. - 4:30 p.m., a free old-time style photo booth, complete with props and costume pieces generously on loan from the UMW Theatre Program, will be held at the Roe House, sponsored by the Office of the Chancellor, UMW Communications, and the Montana Western Foundation. Wear your favorite Old West or Montana Western gear and join in the fun!

ASUMW will host a Campus House Party on Friday, October 16, at 5:00 p.m. in the Swysgood Technology Center Great Room. Activities will include games, karaoke, Homecoming sign making, and a volleyball watch party.

Saturday's celebration begins with the ASUMW Tailgate at 11:00 a.m. in the Bulldog Stadium tailgating area, featuring snacks, cornhole, a photo booth, and rally towels. Kickoff against the College of Idaho is at 1:00 p.m. The Bulldog Spirit Award winner will be announced during the game, and the dodgeball championship will take place at halftime.

Nominations for the Bulldog Spirit Competition close Wednesday, October 14, at 5:00 p.m. The competition recognizes students who demonstrate school pride and campus

Volleyball Setter of the Week

Montana Western's Jayda Ward picked up Erck Hotels / Frontier Conference Women's Volleyball Setter of the Week, the league office announced Monday.

The award marks the first conference weekly honor of Ward's career and third straight weekly honor for the Bulldogs.

"Jayda is a great example of how hard work and determination can pay off," head coach Katie Lovett said. "I've been really impressed as to how Jayda has grown into the athlete she is and how she is still hungry to be even better."

Ward helped Western to a 3-0 week in conference, averaging 7.23 assists and 3.15 digs per set.

The sophomore setter recorded 94 assists, 41 digs, six kills, six service aces and two block assists in 13 sets. She also registered a double-double in all three matches.

Ward began the week with 35 assists and 20 digs in Montana Western's 3-2 victory over Montana Tech on Oct. 7. She averaged seven assists and four digs per set while adding two kills.

She followed with 23 assists and 10 digs in the Bulldogs' 3-1 victory over Mayville State (N.D.) on Oct. 9.

The Pocatello, Idaho, native capped the week with 36 assists, 11 digs and four service aces in Montana Western's 3-1 win over Valley City State (N.D.) on Oct. 10. She averaged nine assists per set in the victory.

ON THE HORIZON: The Bulldogs are back on the road this week when they travel to Bismarck State (10/16) and Dickinson State (10/17)DILLON FAMILY

Attorney General Knudsen asks SCOTUS to hear case over discriminatory DEI training

Montana Attorney General Austin Knudsen led a 20-state coalition of attorneys general in urging the Supreme Court of the United States (SCOTUS) to protect employees from being subjected to illegal trainings that encourage racial discrimination under the guise of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI).

The amicus brief filed today in Joshua Young v. Colorado Department of Corrections, asks SCOTUS to take the case and reverse a flawed Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals decision that dismissed Young's claims that the DEI training he was forced to participate in as a correctional officer at the Colorado Department of Corrections violates Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, which prohibits employment discrimination based on race, color, religion, sex, or national origin, and is antithetical to our Constitution and our values. The training in question created a hostile work environment for the races singled out for negativity. Young ultimately left his job as a correctional officer because the training made the job even more dangerous in an already divisive environment.

"Instead of promoting diversity, the Colorado Department of Corrections' training is enforcing dangerous and racist stereotypes," Attorney General Knudsen said. "Such training directly contradicts the Constitution and violates employees' civil rights. I hope the Supreme Court will decide to weigh in and help stop racial discrimination in the workplace."

During the training, Young was instructed that "all Caucasians are racist, that they perpetuate white supremacy, that the very notion of race was invented by white people to justify the oppression of people of color, that white supremacy is an ever-present feature of daily life..., and that Caucasians who deny their own racism are merely 'fragile' racists who cannot accept their own prejudice." The training also advocated for employees "treating their colleagues differently based on their race."

DEI programs that engage in race stereotyping and race scapegoating, like the training Young was subjected to, cause workplace hostility and division and put employees' safety at risk. While theoretically the goal may be to encourage respect, cooperation, and collegiality, DEI trainings are notorious for defaming the character of the majority group through racial stereotyping and race scapegoating.

The Tenth Circuit erroneously ruled that an employer can avoid

Title VII liability for any "intentional, overtly discriminatory training as long as it only occurs once." That ruling implies that workplace discrimination would be acceptable and not punishable as long as the conduct was infrequent. Title VII contains no such exception, and the court's ruling leaves employees without recourse, even though a single act is still discrimination.

"It's unsurprising that employer-sanctioned training attributing negative characteristics to a group and encouraging unfavorable treatment of that group would yield animosity and unfavorable treatment toward the targeted group," the brief states. "In other words, the training called for an employer-sanctioned environment of harassment and disrespect toward Young because of his race. Neither the Constitution nor Title VII tolerate the kind of state-sponsored discrimination alleged by Young."

Attorneys general from Alabama, Alaska, Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, West Virginia, and the Arizona Legislature also joined Attorney General Knudsen in filing the brief.

Last year, Attorney General Knudsen led a 17 state coalition in asking the Tenth Circuit Court of Appeals to reverse a lower court's decision in the case.

Health Minute: Elderberry

Traditionally, Indigenous peoples used elderberries to treat fevers and painful joints, while Egyptians used them to improve complexion and heal burns. Over the years, research has pointed to various health benefits, such as improved heart function and blood sugar metabolism. Today, however, we tend to associate elderberry with immune support more than anything else. With their high vitamin C content, along with potent antioxidant compounds (phenolic acids, anthocyanins, and flavonoids), elderberries provide the building blocks for resilience. Interestingly, the flowers have up to 10x more flavonols than the berries, including one you're probably already familiar with: quercetin. Altogether, these help reduce inflammation and build a robust immune system, and evidence supports elderberry's role in preventing or at the very least, shortening the length and severity of colds and flu.

With our recent blanket of snow, fall is feeling a lot more like winter, and it's the perfect time to bring elderberry into your daily routine. Our elderberry tonic is a complete blend, pairing elderberries with raw apple cider vinegar, honey, and warming spices like cinnamon and ginger. Take it straight by the spoonful, add a splash to water, or stir it into a cup of tea. Just let your tea cool for a few minutes first, since very hot water can break down vitamin C and the beneficial enzymes in raw honey. Prefer something lighter? Steep a cup of elderflower tea for a gentle, floral way to warm up after a snowy day.

Get stocked up while supplies last! Mighty Oak Mercantile carries both elderberry tonic and elderflower tea. 34 N Idaho, Suite 1, Dillon.

*Because it contains raw honey, the tonic isn't for children under one.

Good health is built day by day, starting with real food—
